SWEDISH SUBMARINE SUNK: ESCAPE DRAMA

DIPLOMAT IN A BRAWL

FIGHTS CHANNEL SWIMMER

BEACH INCIDENT IN ALEXANDRIA

Alexandria, July 27. Insisting on swimming when the beach inspector, a famous swimmer, had decided that it was too dangerous, the Austrian Minister to Egypt, Baron Versbach Hadmar, became involved in a brawl at an Alexandrian bathing resort to-day.

His opponent in the fist-fight was the Egyptian swimmer, Hilmy Bey, who crossed the English Channel successfully some years ago, who is now employed at Alexandria in the capacity of beach inspector.

In discharge of his office, he ordered Baron Versbach Hadmar to cease bathing in the rough sea, as against the regulations.

DRAGGED OUT.

The Baron refused, whereupon he was forcibly removed from the water by Hilmy Bey.

Hilmy followed, and the Baron was taken to the police station in his bathing costume.

Later the Minister protested to the acting Premier who apologized for the incident.—Reuter.

GEORGE BRONSON REA, ADVISER

GIVEN MANCHUKUO APPOINTMENT

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, July 28. It is learned from Mukden that Mr. George Bronson Rea, who is a well-known Shanghai American and the editor of the Far Eastern Review, has been appointed an Adviser to the Manchukuo authorities.

He is the first Westerner so appointed, although his Japanese sympathies are very well known. Mr. G. B. Rea is expected to proceed to Changchun from Mukden shortly.—Reuter.

BROKER FOUND POISONED

UNCONSCIOUS IN GLOUCESTER BLDG.

According to reports in circulation this morning, Mr. C. Benjamin, a well-known local broker, was found unconscious in his room in Gloucester Building last night, under circumstances which suggest that he was suffering from poisoning.

Mr. Benjamin was later removed to the French Hospital, where he is stated to have recovered consciousness and to be well on the way to restoration of his usual health.

BANK CRASH SENSATION

COMMUNIST PLOT IN AMERICA

WHISPERING CAMPAIGN REVELATIONS

New York, July 27. Sensational revelations are made to-day in connexion with the steadily growing list of bank failures, suggesting that the collapses have been due to a carefully-planned plot for undermining public confidence.

The police of Pontiac, Michigan, to-day raided a hotel bedroom where they found evidence of a well-organised Communist plot to destroy the credit of the banks by anonymously passing alarmist messages over the telephone to depositors.

The "telephone whispering" campaign has been going on for some considerable time and it is believed that a large proportion of the panic runs on various banks all over the country originated as a result.

CO-ORDINATED SCHEME.

Federal officials declare that they have been watching a number of similar campaigns in different parts of the country, but there seems to be little doubt that they are part of a co-ordinated scheme for destroying confidence.

It is, however, admitted that while the vast majority of these whispering campaigns have been deliberate attempts to wreck the banks, some have been the work of unbalanced crank.

Eight hundred and eight banks have suspended payment in the first half-year, of which 275 have been in Chicago.—Reuter.

MR. HENDERSON'S OPTIMISM

NOT DONE WITH THE HOOVER PLAN

VERSAILLES TREATY

London, July 27. Mr. Arthur Henderson, who has just returned to London after six months in Geneva where he presided over the Disarmament Conference, interviewed by the London Star to-day said that although he was not completely satisfied with the conference's results to date he thought that pessimism about its final achievements were unjustified.

"What people are liable to forget," he said, "is that 64 nations are represented at Geneva, all with different armament problems, and it is not easy, though not impossible, to adjust so many viewpoints."

"We have not yet done with the Hoover proposals, the Simon resolution to abolish aggressive weapons or the clause in the Versailles Treaty which says that Germany agreed to disarm as a preliminary to a general disarmament on part of the victor nations in the Great War. Those three points, coupled with the desire of the peoples of the world for disarmament, are my main reasons for optimism."—British Wireless.

GOUGULOFF TO DIE

INSANITY DEFENCE REJECTED

VERDICT OF WILFUL MURDER

Paris, July 27. Paul Gouguloff, the Russian assassin of M. Paul Doumer, President of France, was to-day found guilty at the Paris Assizes, and sentenced to death by the guillotine.

Gouguloff was found guilty of murder with premeditation, the jury taking barely half an hour to agree upon their verdict of wilful murder while of sound mind.

The question of the prisoner's sanity was really the only issue in the case, the facts of the assassination being accepted by the defence.

The effort of Maître Geraud, the principal lawyer for the defence, to Gouguloff, the assassin of M. Paul Doumer, sentenced to death yesterday, shown in an ante-room of the court.

establish his case that Gouguloff was insane, was emphasised by the accused's demeanour throughout the trial.

HYSTERICAL OUTBURSTS.

He made hysterical admissions of his guilt, demanding to die. The final scenes were punctuated by his renewed outbursts, interspersed with incoherent lamentations. He was continually interrupting his counsel's pleas for mercy.

Gouguloff towards the end was on the verge of collapse. He writhed in his seat; his neckwear became undone; he was breathing painfully.

MYSTIC RANTING.

When the verdict of the Court was announced, however, Gouguloff received it in perfect quiet and with a martyr-like smile. The scene was followed by more mystic ranting when he was led to the cells below.

The Paris police have never been able to satisfy themselves whether the murder was instigated by a political faction, no other member of the "Russian Fascist Party" has ever been found and the Communists disclaim any connexion with him.—Reuter.

WORK FOR LIFE 250 FT. DOWN

TRAPPED CREW TEAR OFF LEAD KEEL

ALL SAVED

JUST SUFFICIENT BUOYANCY

(Reuter's Special Service).

Stockholm, July 27.

A naval drama enacted off the Swedish coast to-day had a sensational termination, one of the most miraculous escapes from death and disaster in the history of the sea.

It began with a collision between the Swedish cruiser, Fylgia, and the submarine, Baevern. The Baevern was damaged and sunk immediately, carrying her entire crew to the bottom.

Assistance was rushed to the scene from several Swedish and foreign ships. The Japanese submarine, Baevern, was still alive, in efforts to get into contact with the apparently doomed submarine, when close to where she had gone down, her hull was seen to break the surface of the water.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

The story of the wonderful escape of the crew was then related.

The submarine, after the collision, which occurred when Swedish naval craft was returning to harbour after manoeuvres, sank to a depth of 250 feet.

Several of her compartments had been flooded by the collision damage and the crew were faced with the thought that they were doomed. The atmosphere of drama in the submarine, the crew's thoughts, are more easily imagined than described.

LEAD KEEL BROKEN AWAY.

Her officers worked with magnificent coolness and resource, however. When it was discovered that the craft would not respond to any of the normal methods of bringing her to the surface, orders were given for the breaking off of the heavy lead keel.

The methods employed by the crew to detach the keel below the surface have not yet been disclosed, but somehow in this hour of emergency they managed it, and the vessel regained just sufficient buoyancy to rise slowly to the surface.

MODERN CRAFT.

The Baevern is one of the most modern of Swedish submarines, having a speed of 15 knots on the surface and 9 knots below. Her displacement is 500 tons on the surface and 650 tons submerged. She has four torpedo-tubes, but no heavy gun on her deck, which is equipped with an anti-craft 6-pounder and a machine-gun. There are only three modern vessels in the service, all three being based upon the Baevern model.

The Fylgia which sank the Baevern is a light-cruiser of 5,000 tons, equipped with 8 6-inch guns. She is an old ship, having been launched in 1905.

The Acting Manager of the local Branch of the Ho Hong Bank, Ltd., has received cable advice from the Head Office in Singapore to the effect that the Directors of the Ho Hong Bank, Ltd., the Chinese Commercial Bank, Ltd., and the Oversea-Chinese Bank, Ltd., have decided to amalgamate.

The cruiser, Fylgia, which sank the Baevern and witnessed her dramatic reappearance when all seemed lost.

JAPANESE LYTTON REPORT FEARS

ANXIETY CONFESSED IN LONDON SPEECH

CRITICAL HOUR IN HER HISTORY

Japan's anxiety regarding the findings of the Lytton Commission as a result of the inquiry into the Manchuria invasion, were confessed in London to-night.

A plea for understanding and co-operation from Europe with Japan in her hour of crisis was made by Colonel Homma, the Japanese Military Attache, speaking at a dinner of the Japan Society in honour of himself, his wife, and the veteran Japanese statesman, Mr. Yukio Ozaki.

ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE.

Colonel Homma declared that the spirit of the old Anglo-Japanese Alliance was still alive. He thought it was stronger to-day than ever.

The most critical hour in Japanese history was, he said, approaching with the presentation of the Lytton Report. Japan was convinced of the justice of her cause. England would be the first to realise how vital the Manchurian question was to Japan and to recognise the legitimacy of the action in self-defence of the Japanese Army in China.

OTTAWA New Dominion Proposals

Britain Keeping Open Mind

Ottawa, July 27. Further progress is recorded at the Imperial Economic Conference, notwithstanding official reticence which precludes a definite appraisal of the length of the forward strides.

The special Meat Committee of the Dominions has, it is reported, agreed to recommend preferences on butter ranging from 15 to 20 per cent.

The proposals in all cases will be submitted to the United Kingdom delegation for final decision.

NO EXTRAVAGANT DEMANDS.

It is understood to-night that the Dominions Meat Committee's report avoids extravagant demands and does not ask for preferences but for quantitative restrictions.

Any reports purporting to indicate the attitude of the United Kingdom delegation to any of the proposals of the Dominions may be taken as unfounded as the British delegation is keeping an open mind until the picture has been completed with the receipt of all the proposals of the Dominions.—Reuter.

CENTENARY OF B.M.A.

VERY INTERESTING PROGRAMME

LONDON GATHERING

London, July 27. Over two thousand doctors, including many from overseas, have assembled in London for the centenary celebrations of the British Medical Association. Papers totalling over a million words are being read and discussed in the twenty-four sections, presided over by specialists in each section. As a check on the eloquence of the speakers, the old prerogative of limiting speeches to ten minutes is being employed. The programme is of exceptional interest both to laymen and members of the medical profession.

MENACE OF QUACKERY.

The whole question of unqualified manipulative surgeons will be raised in a discussion on "The Menace of Quackery in Physical Medicine," which will be opened by Dr. C. B. Heald, an expert on injuries from sport.

Sharp differences of opinion are expected in a discussion on the basis of inoculation, which will be led by Sir Almroth Wright, a world authority on the subject. The bacteriological section will also deal with the case of milk-borne infections, a subject which is well to the fore at the moment, since the accepted methods of estimating the number of bacteria in milk have recently been shown to be wholly unreliable.

Professor J. C. G. Ledingham, the leading authority on virus diseases, will go straight to the core of an important problem when he speaks on "Tissue Changes in Virus Diseases."

FORENSIC MEDICINE.

The section of Forensic Medicine will hear papers from such well-known experts as Sir Bernard Spilsbury and Professor Sydney Smith, of Edinburgh. Dr. Godfrey, Carter will discuss freak suicides, and Dr. C. Killick Millard, Medical Officer of Health for Leicester, will branch a favourite subject in "The Medico-Legal Aspects of Voluntary Euthanasia."

Finally, doctors will be given an opportunity to express their views on the vexed out-patient problem, which is at present being considered in relation to the London hospitals by a special committee appointed by the Prince of Wales as President of King Edward's Hospital Fund for London. It is expected that further possible economies in hospital administration will be advocated by Captain J. E. Stone, of Birmingham, who has made a special study of hospital "costing."

POSTAL BOYCOTT IN CHINA

AGAINST COMMUNIST DISTRICTS

Shanghai, July 28. It is learned from Nanking that the Ministry of Communications has decided to cut off all areas in China under the control of either bandits or communists from the rest of the country, at least as far as postal facilities are concerned. In future, a boycott, similar to that against Manchukuo, will be conducted against all Communist and bandit districts.—Reuter.

BRITISH COUNCIL'S SYMPATHY

London, July 27. The British Air Council have sent through the British Air Attache in South America, who is now in Rio de Janeiro, a message of condolence on the death of M. Santos Dumont, to the Brazilian Government and the family of the distinguished Brazilian air pioneer.—British Wireless.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney.

The following hand appears rather simple, but it is peculiar to note that in a duplicate tournament, when this hand was played, not one pair succeeded in making the five no trump. As a matter of fact, at several tables, only one no trump was made.

♠ 7-3	♥ A-Q-7-6-4-2	♦ K-J-9-3	♣ K
♠ Q-10-5	♥ 8-5-3	♦ Q-10	♣ 8-7-6
♠ 4	♥ 5	♦ 4	♣ 5
♠ A-4-2	♥ K-J-9	♦ 10-9	♣ 8-6-4
♠ 5	♥ 2	♦ 2	♣ 2
♠ K-J-9-8-6	♥ 10	♦ A-2	♣ A-Q-J-7-3

The Bidding.

The hand was played in a duplicate contract match. South, the dealer, holds two five-card suits and the required two and one-half quick tricks. When holding two biddable five-card suits the higher ranking suit is bid first, therefore South bid one spade. West passed and North bid two hearts. East passed and South went to three clubs. North then bid three no trump which bought the contract.

The Play.

East has the opening lead. Some players holding 10, nine, eight will lead the 10 spot—the top of the three-card sequence—while others prefer the lead of a 10 spot to show a higher honour, such as queen, 10, nine. The East player in this case played the six of clubs, his fourth best club, dummy played small and North, the declarer, won the trick with the king.

In order to go game, the declarer must establish the spade suit. The seven of spades is led by declarer and when East plays the deuce, the declarer fineses the jack which goes to West's queen. West returns his fourth best diamond, declarer plays the nine which holds the trick.

The only way for the declarer to go game now is to find the ace of spades in the East hand. Therefore, the three of spades is led by the declarer and when East plays the four, declarer goes right up with the king in dummy which holds the trick, and returns a small spade hoping for a split in the spades. East won the trick with the ace and returned the 10 of clubs which the dummy won with the ace, declarer discarding the four of hearts. The two good spades are cashed in dummy, declarer discarding the six and seven of hearts, East discarding the nine of hearts and deuce of clubs.

The ace of diamonds is played from dummy, East is forced to discard the four of clubs. Declarer now has more good tricks than is necessary. The three clubs are good in dummy and he also holds the good ace of hearts and the king of diamonds.

By establishing his side suit, the declarer has made five no trump.

MIGRATION SCHEMERELIEF FOR DEPRESSED
JAPANESE FARMERSTokyo, July 27.
As a relief measure for the depressed agrarian population, the department of Overseas Affairs is considering the financing of large scale immigration to Manchuria, Mongolia and Brazil. The estimated cost of the scheme is 3,000,000 yen, appropriation for which will be referred to the forthcoming extraordinary session of the Diet.—*Reuter's Special.LOCAL HEALTH
REFORMSDR. WELLINGTON'S PROPOSALSCO-ORDINATION

Important recommendations are made by the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services, Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington, in his report to the authorities on the proposed reorganization on modern lines of the Medical and Sanitary Services of the Colony. The report has been forwarded to the Sanitary Board for comment.

A covering letter from the Colonial Secretariat to the President of the Sanitary Board, states:

"With reference to your letter No. 297-29 of the 17th September, 1930, I am directed to forward for the information of the Board and for any comments which the Board may wish to make the accompanying copy of recommendations submitted by the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services for the reorganization on modern lines of the Medical and Sanitary Services of the Colony."

2. One measure, the Births and Deaths Registration Amendment Ordinance has already been passed and legislation designed to give effect to other recommendations is under consideration.

I am, etc.,

(sd.) R. A. C. NORTH.

Colonial Secretary."

The Recommendations.

Dr. Wellington's recommendations are as follows:

The laws dealing with Quarantine and Prevention of Disease should be grouped together under one Ordinance and Quarantine and Prevention of Disease Ordinance. This Ordinance would not only deal with human infectious disease of an epidemic character such as plague, cholera and small-pox, but with less dangerous infectious diseases such as diphtheria, measles, etc., and with special disease such as malaria, tuberculosis, leprosy. Vaccination would be included. The scope of the Ordinance should be extended to include animal diseases, animal quarantine and the control of slaughter-houses.

Food and Drugs.

The Sale of Food and Drugs Ordinance should be amended so as to allow of Health Officers taking action and to ensure that none but Government Analysts shall be analysts under the Act. The scope of this Act should be extended so as to include provisions for insuring the purity of foods and drugs sold, and to prevent the sale of food and drugs unfit for human consumption. It should include provisions for licensing places where food is prepared for sale and for places where food is sold either retail and wholesale and for eating houses, restaurants and dairies.

There should be a Factory and Workshop Ordinance for dealing with the sanitation of factories and workshops, for regulating the hours of work allowed, and for ensuring proper precautions being taken in the case of dangerous trades.

A Sanitation Ordinance.

All matters relating to Urban sanitation, houses, drains, scavenging, and town cleansing, conservancy and sewerage, and the licensing of premises other than those where food is sold or prepared for sale, should come under a Sanitation Ordinance. There should be a clause authorising the Governor to apply any or all the provisions to villages and rural areas.

Regulations regarding the construction of buildings should come under a Building Ordinance.

There should be an Ordinance for Town Planning and Town Improvement.

Administration.

The Quarantine and Prevention of Disease Ordinance, the Sale of Drugs Ordinance, and the Factories and Workshops Ordinance should be administered by the Medical and Health Department.

The Registrar of Births and Deaths should be the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services.

The Town Planning and Town Improvement Ordinance should be administered by a Board which should contain the D.P.W. and the D.M.S.S.

The Water Authority under the Water Works Ordinance should be a Board on which the D.M.S.S. has a seat.

The Buildings Ordinance should be administered by the Public Works Department.

The Sanitation Ordinance should be administered by the Sanitary Board and the Sanitary Department.

Sanitary Department's Scope.

The Sanitary Department, which under the new scheme will confine its attention to sanitation in the restricted sense of the term, will deal with town cleansing, housing, scavenging, conservancy, the control of certain trades, and the sanitary supervision of places of assembly such as common lodging houses, theatres etc., etc.

In most up-to-date cities the head of such an organisation would be the Municipal Engineer. In Panama it is the Health Officer. In Hongkong, because of the desire of certain of the Chinese to have a buffer interposed between them and the professional hygienist, it is recommended that until public opinion is more educated on matters of Hygiene and Sanitation the post of "Head of the Sanitary Department" shall be held by a

After his outline of the scheme for the War Loan Conversion Mr. Chamberlain explained that the need for secrecy had prevented him from printing the millions of forms required. Yet he hoped that within 24 hours they would be in the post. The task was carried out with an hour and a half to spare. Our picture shows the distributing station where the 15,000,000 forms notifying the scheme were prepared for dispatch.—(Times copyright).

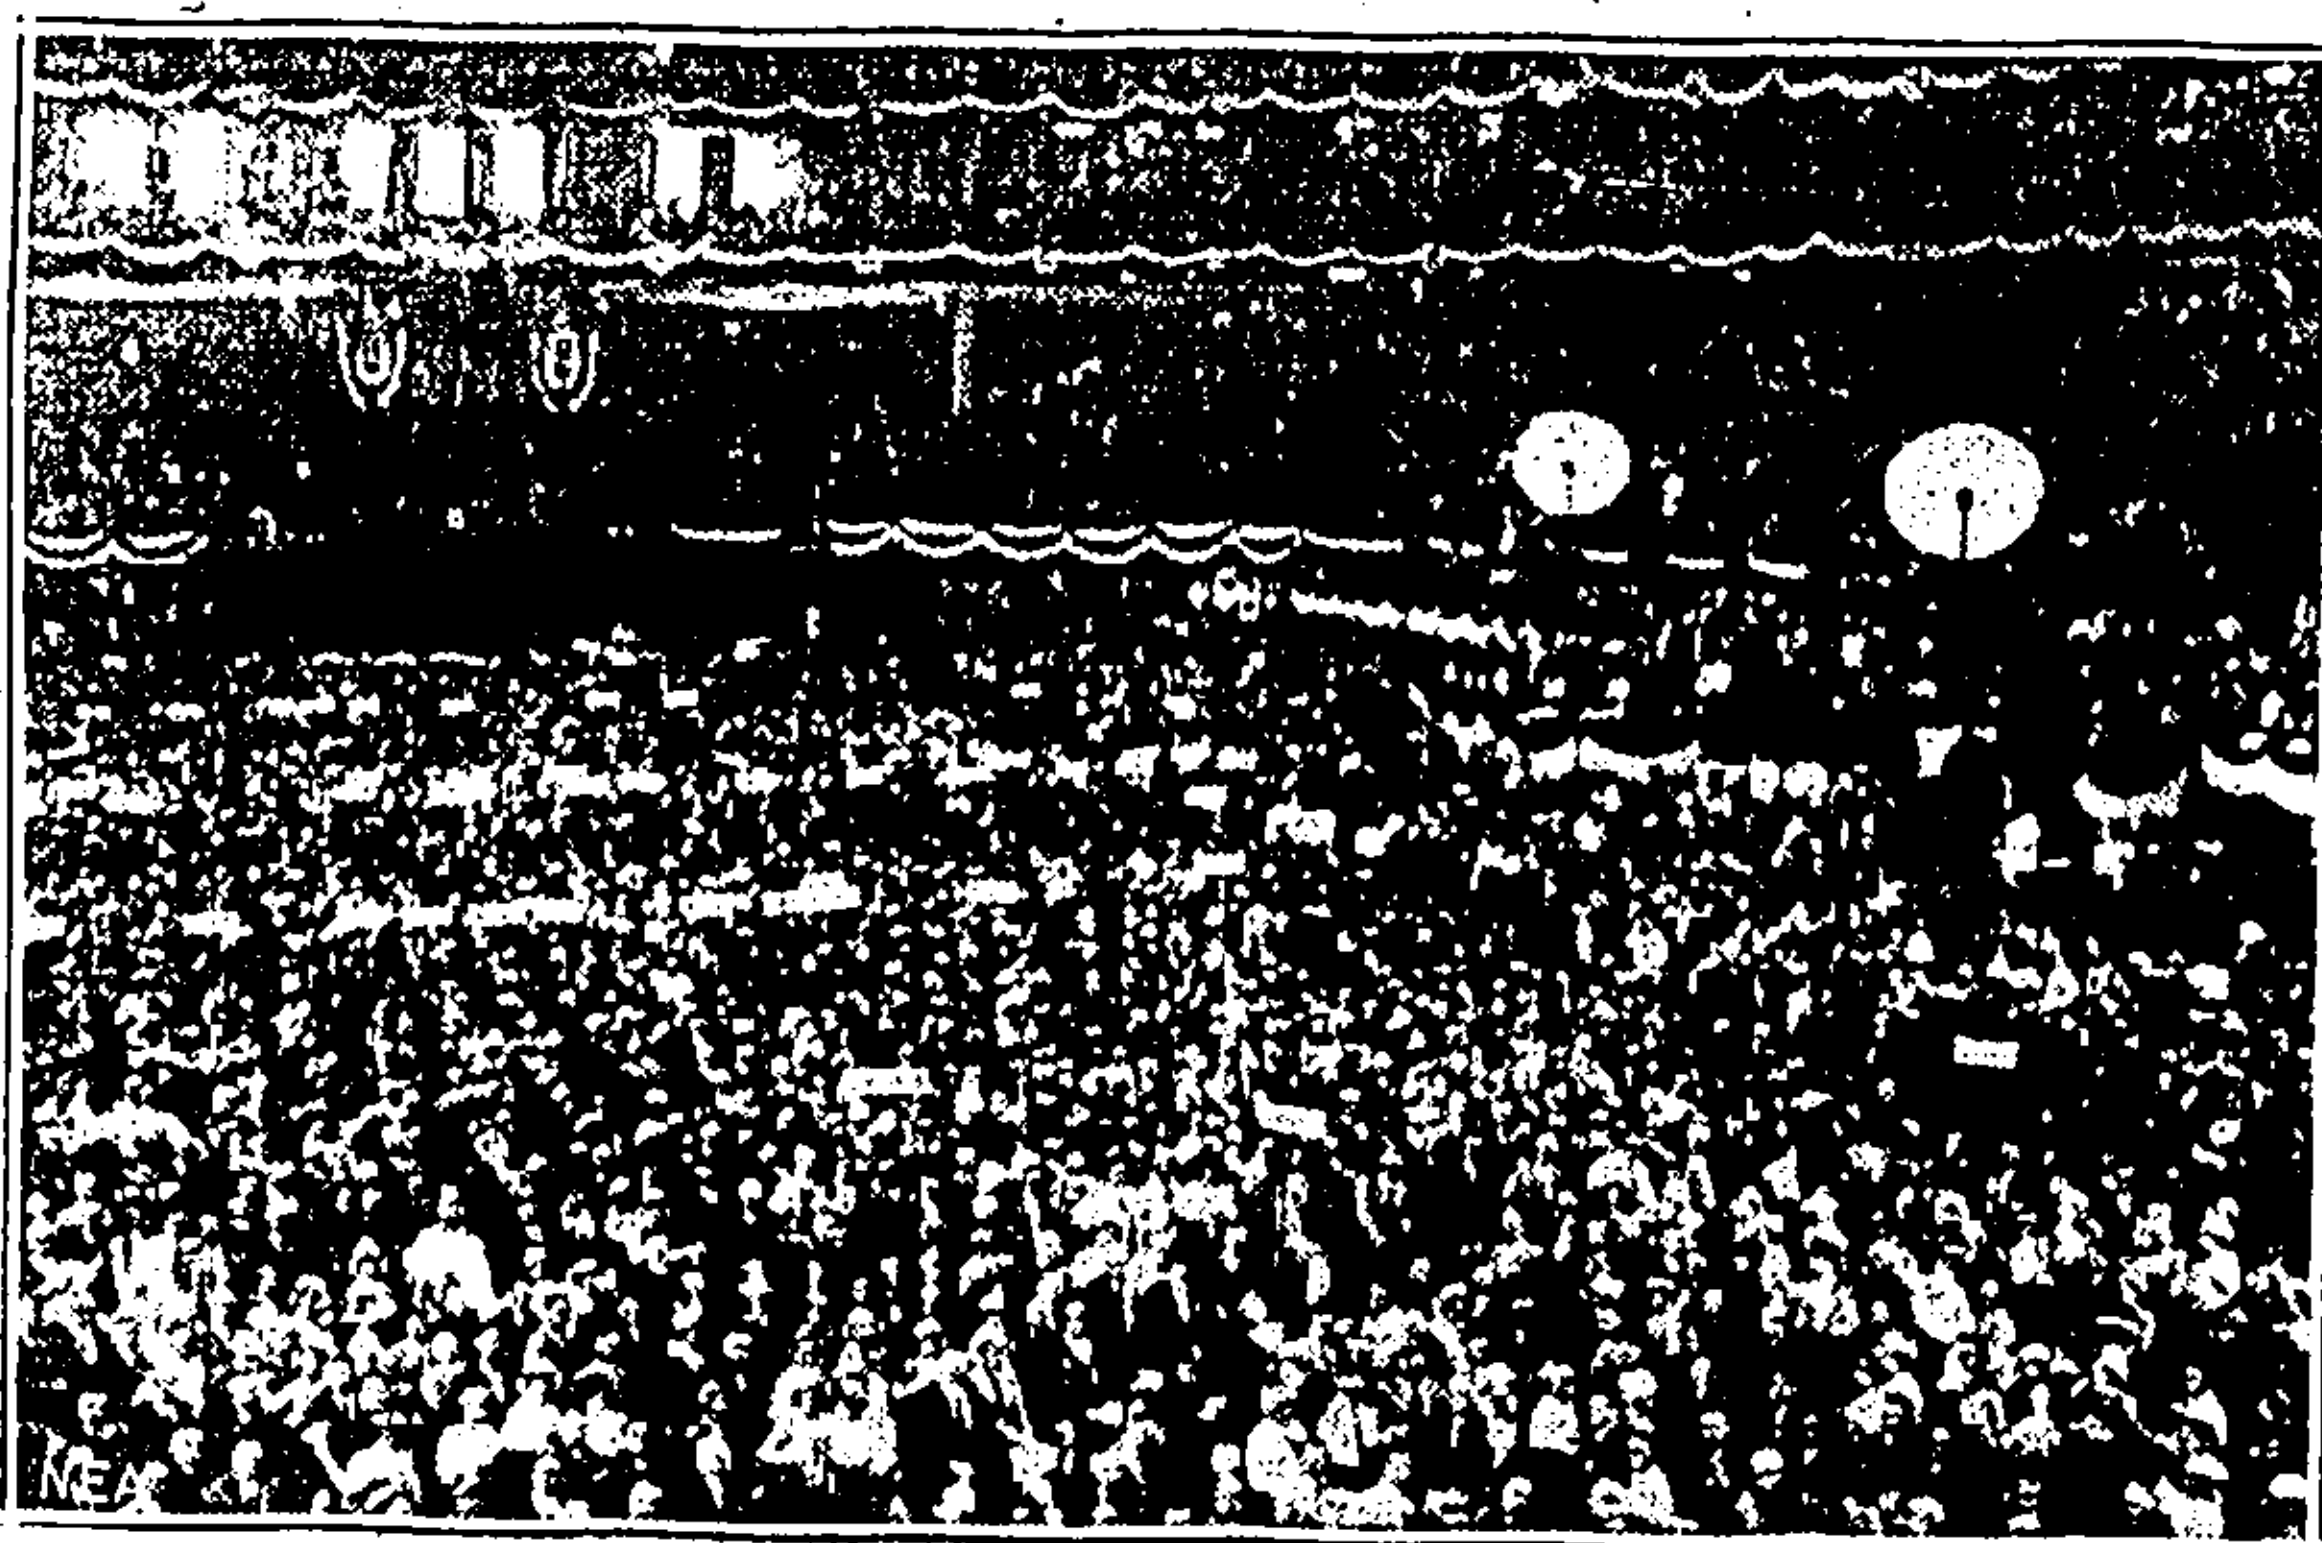

With strenuous days of work and bitter political warfare looming ahead of them, delegates swarmed the aisles of Chicago Stadium as you see them above at the start of the Democratic National Convention.

Jumping into the aisles and waving aloft their stage banners, delegates to the Democratic convention broke into an early demonstration of enthusiasm at the very mention in the keynote speech of repeal of the dry law.

With rival forces marshalled for the battle over candidate and platform planks, delegates to the Democratic National Convention presented this appearance in Chicago's giant stadium. Mr. Franklin Roosevelt secured the necessary two-thirds majority after a pact with Mr. Garner, another candidate for the presidential nomination.

MAN HUNTERS

BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

Susan Carey, secretly in love with Bob Dunbar but engaged to Ernest Heath, a much older man, suddenly finds herself free. Heath releases her chivalrously, realising her heart is not his. She tells Bob the news and he urges an early marriage. Dunbar's father, a proud financier, interposes. He tells Susan such a marriage will ruin Bob's life. He wants his son to marry Denise Ackroyd, society girl. Susan, perplexed, asks Ray Flannery, a friend, for advice. Ray tells her to follow the dictates of her heart.

CHAPTER XLVII.

Bob's father left Susan's home confident of triumph. The girl had seemed quite malleable, humble in fact. He rubbed his hands together, smiling softly at the memory of his own eloquence. He had taken exactly the right tone, he felt. Calling the affair "puppy love" had been precise, and yet it had also the shadow of the jocose. The phrase had indicated that he, a man of the world, smiled understandingly at these exhibitions while deploring them.

Although he refused to recognize it the suspicion began to grow in his mind that there had been something not quite noble in his own behaviour. Mr. Dunbar liked to think himself noble above all things. But after the first glow of complacency had died he began to remember the pallor of the girl's face and the look in her eyes. He shrugged impatiently. It was nonsense even to think of it for a moment. Who was she? A mere nobody. It was his son's future he must consider, not the feelings of an unknown girl.

It this mood he returned to his office. His secretary wondered what had happened to put him in such an irritable humour. It must be Mr. Bob again, she decided, and thought for the thousandth time how strange it was that a man who was such a power in the world of affairs should be so helpless in the management of his own son.

Dunbar snapped and growled at everyone. Nothing suited him. Late in the afternoon he roared at the quiet, efficient creature who had endured his nagging for 15 years without complaint, ordering her to get Miss Ackroyd on the wire. This done, his mood lightened and the office staff gave thanks. He bustled about like a whirlwind, flinging orders right and left, announcing on the threshold that he was leaving for the day.

The boy would come round all right, the father reflected as he rode home. Lucky it was that he had found out about the affair in time to spike a hasty marriage. There would be no newspaper talk, no distressing business of annulment. All this was just a little flurry. Most young men went through the same thing.

At the station Dunbar dismissed his own chauffeur who was waiting. "Miss Ackroyd is driving me home," he explained, pointing at the silver grey roadster parked a little ahead of the Dunbar limousine.

finance gaily, and charmingly. She looked exotic in her fitted black cloth suit with a swirl of silver fox. The man approved of her. From the tips of her slender shoes to the crown of her Paris hat she was exactly what he would have chosen for a daughter-in-law. He stepped into the car and Denise started the engine.

"What's up, darling?" He smiled at her benignly. He liked her smooth impudence. No one else would have dared to call this old lion "darling."

"It's settled," he told her with complacency. Denise pretended not to understand.

"What is?" she wanted to know. "Everything we talked about last night."

Denise widened her eyes with flattering amazement. "Who did it?" He preened himself. "Who do you suppose?"

She took one slim gloved hand from the wheel to lay it caressingly on his arm. "Marvelous!" she murmured.

He pretended to growl at her. "Watch the road, young woman, or we'll be in the ditch."

"You know better," pouted Denise. "I can drive in my sleep."

"That's true," he admitted. "You do everything well." They smiled at each other understandingly. Each admired the other's ruthlessness, the ability to take what was wanted with a quick casual hand.

Denise increased the roadster's speed. "Well, that's that," she said with her tinkling laugh. "Where do we go from here?"

Dunbar knitted his brows. "I thought we'd give him a few hours, maybe a day, to cool off," he said.

"Then I'll call him up and tell him he'd better come home."

"Do you know where he is?" "Of course," the man shrugged.

"I had my secretary call his club today. He's registered there."

"Smart thing," breathed Denise. "After Bob comes back," pursued the father, "I think we'd better settle matters between you and him for good. This nonsense has dragged on long enough. How about a small wedding, and then a trip to South America? The boy's been talking about that for some time. He's been restless."

"It suits me," Denise said. She turned the car into the drive and drew up neatly before the door. "You don't want me to drop him a line or anything?" she asked sweetly.

"No, I think perhaps you'd better not," he said. "He's stubborn as a mule sometimes and we'll have to go about this very carefully. In a week's time," he prophesied, "Bob will be a sailing the high seas with you and will have forgotten he ever had any other plans."

"You clever thing," sighed the girl. "I'll do just as you say." She hummed softly to herself as she drove away. How simple it all was. Then her smile vanished and a little sharp line appeared around the corners of her mouth. The melting sweetness she had exhibited for Mr. Dunbar's benefit was replaced by a look of stony determination. Wouldn't she make Bob pay for all this later. It would be fun, she thought, to see him jump when she cracked the whip.

Denise drove like a demon and her smile was nothing to see.

In a narrow room furnished agreeably with old English oak a young man was packing a travelling bag. His expression was stern, his eyes intent. He laid out shirts and handkerchiefs with methodical care. On a luggage rack in one corner of the room lay a huge pigskin case initialed in gold. Everything about the place indicated departure.

The telephone rang and the young man answered. He frowned, putting his hand over the mouthpiece instinctively as if wishing to gain time.

He said very quietly, "Yes, of course. Any time you say. At one then."

The young man's face was quite (Continued on Page 12.)

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRE.

Here are the views of American critics on "Men Like These". "Graphic and thrilling... depicts realistically and credibly how men, trapped inside a sunken submarine, conduct themselves... There is a marked effect of genuineness in the scenes inside the disabled submarine, and they seem to have been taken from actual life... Assuredly a grim, nerve-racking picture."—William Boehnel in New York World-Telegram.
"An exciting pictorial record of the sinking of a British submarine, trapped in collision with a freighter. It has no story but that doesn't prevent it from holding the interest every foot of the way... The underwater scenes are unusually good, and the bravery of the submarine crew stressed."—Motion Picture Daily.
"Harrowing experiences of crew in sunken British submarine packed with thrills... Carries a wealth of human appeal and is built for thrill fans."—Film Daily.
"This merits the attention of every type of theatre. In addition to being vivid and dramatic it possesses an educational value and a logical side in connection with the submarine. There is a realism, a suspense, and audience gripping sensation which makes the 35 minutes running time far less."—Variety.
"Most apt is 'Trapped In a Submarine' sponsored by the British Admiralty. In it we see more things of which we have heard much but know little. It depicts vividly the dangers that beset the men on a submarine, and the ways in which they may be rescued from these perils. It is well constructed and presents some excellent shots of submarines and the life aboard them."—N.Y. Post Standard.

"One Hour with You."

When Armistice day comes around, Maurice Chevalier thanks God that he is alive after his harrowing war experiences. He nearly died from a serious wound, was captured by the enemy and finally escaped back across the lines. The Frenchman, now starring in Paramount's "One Hour With You", was one of the first on the firing line when war broke out in France. During an enemy attack at Outry, in the east of France, he fell, blood pouring from his mouth, from a shell wound in the lung. He regained consciousness in a German hospital and when he could be moved he was sent to the prison camp at Alten Grabow near Magdeburg. He suffered terribly from the effects of his wound, but his gaiety was unimpaired. With some congenial fellow-prisoners he organized concerts in the camp and one night the camp commandant with several German generals came to the show. Chevalier amused them immensely and his popularity gave him the freedom of the camp. Chevalier was invalided home to Paris. His wound was such that he could not continue in military service. He was decorated with the Croix de Guerre for gallant conduct at Outry.
Chevalier again has Jeanette MacDonald as his leading lady in "One Hour With You", which comes to the King's and Oriental Theatres starting on Sunday. Miss Macdonald played opposite the famous star in "The Parade" two years ago.
"Condemned to Death."
It will be remembered that Arthur Wontner and Jane Welsh, who have leading parts in "Condemned to Death", opening to-day at the Queen's also both appeared in "The Sleeping Cardinal", a former Twickenham film which had such a success in America.

Arthur Wontner gave a remarkable performance as Sherlock Holmes in this picture, and consequently Jane got into the habit of calling him "Sherlock" on the set. During one of the more emotional scenes in "Condemned to Death" she became rather carried away by the intensity of her acting, and in the middle of a take unwittingly addressed Mr. Wontner as Sherlock. When everyone had recovered it was thought advisable to take the scene again!

"Husband's Holiday."
Paramount has convened another one of its all-favorites casts for "Husband's Holiday", the modern triangle-drama based on Ernest Pascal's novel and play, "The Marriage Bed", which is showing at the King's Theatre to-day.
Clive Brook, whose artistry is of such a high calibre that he has never yet drawn an adverse critique from any major writer, heads the big cast as George Boyd, a romantic-minded husband who runs away from, rather than faces the boredom of middle-class married life.
The part of Mary Boyd, his wife, is played by Vivienne Osborne, the French character who was Paul Lukas' "Old girl friend" in "The Beloved Bachelor".
Charlie Ruggles, the droll comedian of "The Girl Habit", "The Beloved Bachelor" and many other successes, is seen in a whimsical portrayal as Clyde Saunders, one of the many meddlesome "in-laws" of this play.
Juliette Compton, the sardonic character of George Bancroft's "Rich Man's Polly" and Ruth Chatterton's "Unfaithful", plays the part of the

BRITISH GOODS

It cannot be otherwise than gratifying to all good Britons to note that the official trade returns for the first six months of this year show a marked advance in the importations of British goods into this Colony. If China be excluded, the largest share of our import trade during that period has to be credited to the United Kingdom. Two years ago, the British share was only just over nine per cent. For the six months just ended, it has risen to over thirteen per cent. But whilst these figures represent a steady advance, it is difficult to see much outward evidence of large influx of British commodities. It will, of course, be realised in this connection that considerable quantities of our imports eventually find their way into the interior markets, whilst trade statistics include such things as machinery and other industrial equipment, not usually figuring in retail business.

The recent Empire Products Fair undoubtedly did a great deal in bringing to the notice of the public various lines of British goods. More than one householder visiting the Fair expressed surprise that there were such excellent products of British origin available in the Colony. That fact of itself illustrated one thing—namely, that there had been no particular effort on the part of shopkeepers to push such commodities. But, the Fair did what the appetite of British residents for Empire products. The pity of it is, if we are to judge from our own observations and from the outspoken letters appearing in the Press, that these British goods appear in many instances to be stacked away out of sight, and are seldom advertised. There are outstanding exceptions to the rule, admittedly. The difficulty in securing Empire goods has led one correspondent to assert that the meaning and object of the recent ignored by importers and dealers. Whatever the cause may be, it will scarcely be denied that foreign goods can be obtained without the least difficulty. This is the reward of service and judicious advertising. And it will only be by similar means that British products will be popularised.

All the blame in these matters cannot be laid at the doors of the retail businesses. In fact, a much greater share of it belongs to wholesale houses. There are firms in this Colony holding valuable British agencies who never think of advertising their products from one year's end to another. They are content to go on in the good old-fashioned ways of the past, forgetting that we live in times which call for other methods. In fairness to some others, however, it must be added that there has come to them in latter years a real appreciation of the value of publicity. One thing is certain—namely, that if Hongkong is to become a bigger market for Empire goods, some organised effort will have to be made, backed up by advertising giving actual prices, and by special shop window displays. The lead given by one of our oldest firms in this regard would, if generally followed, lead to beneficial results in the general interests of British trade.

Smashing the Dope Gangs.

"Drug traffickers are in for a most uncomfortable time," declared Russell Pasha, head of the Central Narcotics Intelligence Bureau, to the League of Nations Opium Committee earlier this year. And his words have been abundantly substantiated by the events of the past few weeks, which have brought disaster after disaster to illicit dope syndicates. In Egypt, the notorious Mohamed Moustapha Nafei, after snapping his fingers at law and order for thirty years, has been sentenced to a stiff term of imprisonment and a heavy fine. He was an enterprising gentleman who floated a shipping company to facilitate the smuggling of drugs. In Paris, a rich American, who was carrying $16,000 in notes when arrested, has been brought to book. This was the dramatic sequel to the discovery, about six months ago, of nearly a hundred-weight of morphine concealed on board the "Ile de France" at New York, in cases of children's toys. Three Englishmen fell into the net at Constantinople. Their speciality was a mail order business in heroin, an even more dangerous drug than morphine. They had many clients in Egypt. With them were associated the sister of one of the men, married to an Italian, and two Greeks. Much of the evidence against them was obtained by the Egyptian authorities, but the Turkish police acted with commendable speed. These outstanding cases well illustrate the difficulties of fighting the drug traffic and the absolute necessity of international co-operation. Scoundrels of all nationalities link themselves together; a Pole was arrested with the American. Their activities range over many countries and continents. The elaborate organisation and ingenious smuggling devices resorted to are amply repaid by the fabulous profits, often amounting to thousands per cent. Thanks to the excellent staff work of the League of Nations something like a common front is now being presented against the drug evil. The Constantinople arrests were made possible only by the fact that Turkey, although not then a member of the League, was persuaded to work with the League in this matter. The smashing of some of the leading gangs is most encouraging. Constant vigilance, nevertheless, is needed to prevent a recrudescence of large-scale traffic. Even in Great Britain, and certainly in other parts of the Empire, drug traffickers are still at large.

The Postmaster-General announces that letters from Hongkong to the Continent of Europe, forwarded by air via Glasgow to Marseilles, will be transmitted from Marseilles to their destination at the same rates as apply to French postal matter. Letters addressed to Britain will be sent by air mail from Marseilles at the rates already announced—$1.35 for the airmail service plus the regular postage of 15 cents.

DAY BY DAY

EARNEST MEN CAN NEVER THINK IN VAIN THROUGH THEIR THOUGHTS MAY BE ERRORS.—Lytton.

Lane, Crawford's summer sale commences to-morrow.

The Ben Line s.s. Benalder, from Home via Straits, is due here on August 10th.

Connaught Road between Jackson Street and Wardley Street has been temporarily closed to traffic owing to a burst pipe under the road.

Owing to unforeseen circumstances the recital to be given by the Portuguese Amateurs at the Club de Recreio is postponed sine die.

Mr. W. C. Felshaw will speak on "Druidism" at the usual weekly public lecture of the Hongkong Lodge, the Theosophical Society, 17, Queen's Road Central, to-day at 6 p.m.

Mrs. F. X. Monteiro of 8 Hart Avenue was bitten by a dog yesterday afternoon as she was walking along the road. The animal is believed to belong to Mrs. Goings of 2 Hart Avenue.

Two lenses mounted on brass coils are reported by Staff Sergeant Dyer, R.A.O.C., to have been stolen from the front of the depot workshop where they had been left after being used in an experiment.

While being driven along Nathan Road last evening Mr. "Kid" Marriott's Austin Seven caught alight by an electric wire fusing. Fortunately the slight outbreak was soon extinguished without any damage being caused.

Sincere's sale is attracting crowds of bargain hunters, the ladies' day proving especially popular. From to-day to Saturday, special displays of goods suitable as presents to parents are on view, and young ladies are presenting customers with bunches of flowers as souvenirs.

The appointment has been announced by the Nanking Government of Mr. Yu Shun-wah, well known local racing owner and jockey, as the General Manager of the China Merchants' Steamship Navigation Company, Hongkong branch. The appointment will take effect from August 1.

On turning into Nathan Road, from Saigon Road, Mr. E. S. Franks, of Lanchester, who was driving a motor cycle No. 175, lightly struck a man who ran across in front of the cycle carrying a baby. The child fell to the ground and received slight injuries to the back of his head and was treated by Dr. Asjoe, of Nathan Road.

According to a report made to the police by Mr. G. White, assistant manager of the Graeco-Egyptian Tobacco Store, a case of smokers' requisites which was consigned from Hamburg was found on arrival to contain nothing but foreign newspapers. The discovery was made when delivery was being taken from the Kowloon Godowns yesterday.

Charged with the theft of a gold watch valued at $85, Li Pan, a fooki employed in a tea-shop in Shamshui, was sentenced to six weeks' hard labour before Mr. Fraser at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning. Sergeant Tuckett stated that defendant had only been employed in the shop for two days. Yesterday he was left in the shop with another fooki, and when the master returned, he found a gold watch to be missing. Defendant was suspected and later investigated by the police revealed that he had really stolen the watch.

STOCK EXCHANGE GAMBLING

WHERE PROFIT-MAKING IS MERELY A MYTH
By A STOCKBROKER.

"YOU can't make money in Throgmorton or Wall Street in the Share market, unless you are working with a pool—or are on the inside, receiving your information from the operator. Then you will need hard cash to support your shares in case things go momentarily wrong."

Those were my parting words to three friends, each of whom three years ago could have written their cheques for over a quarter of a million pounds.

To-day, one of them is looking for a job; the other two are working for about five pounds a week and are glad to get it. Their beautiful homes, cars, yachts and everything they had acquired with their wealth have gone.

It is a huge mistake to imagine that by gambling or speculating in shares money can be made as a steady income. It has been made, but one must not overlook the fact that the large winnings made during the last Bull market were by people who did not know enough about share operations to fear the consequences of paying ridiculously high prices for them. For months rich and poor, to whom the game was a matter of luck, disregarded all the laws of economics and grew richer and richer on paper.

Bought in Ignorance.

If a friend told them to buy shares of the Hatry Group, they did because Mr. So-and-So made money out of them—there was no question asked as to what the shares were really worth, or to see a balance-sheet. To them it was the same as receiving a tip on a good horse—bound to win. There is only one known fact, that if you cannot see the top, you are bound to make money in a Bull market. What made them rich then was exactly what made them poor later; they did not know when to take profits because they did not know the top or when to cut losses because they were ignorant of the bottom.

It may be said that I am speaking only of the reckless speculator. I am not, as when the boom came, the rich did not buy because they had been in possession of shares for years. They merely watched them go up, and as they had not bought for the rise, they felt they were not compelled to sell, in other words, they were just as guilty as the reckless speculator. At last, all their long held shares were going up. They could see no limit and why should they take profits when by waiting there was a chance to get more?

He who can see no top and no bottom is usually the one who loses all his money, just as my friends did. Of the money made in the share market much has been made by lucky plunges, and the only ones who have really collected hard cash and have not merely seen paper profits are the ones who have had the money to form pools. It has not been a case of knowing top or bottom, but because they knew exactly how high the share was going and when to get out.

Made Seven Million.

In the recent Radio Corporation Pool Operations, the Pool

made over seven million pounds in three days, the others lost that amount and more. The Pool operators became rich on the public ignorance. During the rubber boom, one of the clerks employed in a City office reported late for duty. He was "ticked off" by his employer. The clerk calmly told him that he did not have to stand his abuse any longer as he had made ten thousand pounds in rubber.

This incident did not need any cleverness on the part of the clerk; he took a chance and knew enough to get out and take his profits. Dozens of true stories can be told of the cleverest market operators who made money for a time in shares, but in the end had to go back to their real business, deciding that it was best to leave the other fellow to make a fortune in Throgmorton Street.

I will give you two; one of a big business executive in London, the other of a professional market operator in Wall Street. The big business man was the type of whom one reads in books. He started life by selling newspapers on the street corners, he found himself a job in an automobile factory, and by sheer hard work and grit he later became managing director of the factory. His firm made a lot of money selling motor cars. As he and his co-directors had not had much experience in the Stock market the shares of their company lagged and were selling on the exchange according to their true earning capacity, till one of the jobbers suggested forming a pool and putting the prices up so as to make the public eager to buy, which would send the price up still higher.

Would not Sell, and Lost.

In the course of events they became speculative motor favourites; everyone in the factory out of loyalty was carrying some on margin. When the shares were selling for over twenty times their value the managing director advised everybody to sell out and take their profits; he even went so far as to tell them that the factory could never earn enough dividends to return even five per cent. of the quoted price.

The staff did not think of the earnings, all they knew was that the shares were still going up.

Their eyes, instead of being on the company's balance-sheet, were on the tape, and that said, no top! The managing director sold out his holdings and took his profits in hard cash—a clever man. The rest waited just one day too long, and the shares tumbled down.

Having uninvested money, is a great trial, and the managing director again thought of the company. He waited until he thought the shares had reached bottom, went into the market again, and bought himself one hundred thousand for a quick turn—he paid cash. But he could not see bottom, he kept buying until he found himself in a hole, and in order to save himself he had to put up the shares for which he had paid cash, as collateral. In 1931 the shares made record loss, and as he had no more cash or collateral to put up, he lost his millions. He is now back making motor cars. The only time he ever made money in shares was when he was part of the pool.

Willie Win's Wife.

The next is the one of the market operator—let us call him Willie Win. He was the prince of good fellows, and when Willie said "buy" there was nothing to it; everybody did and made money. He could switch investors from one stock to another, and could still keep making money for them. He was an acknowledged wonder. Willie started bulling an amusement stock; every day the ticker told its own tale; the price soared to sky high limits and became the sensation of the Bull market.

Early in 1929 he saw some of his associates whose judgment he valued reduce their holdings, and he did the same, becoming a multi-millionaire. Came the slump, and Willie's customers lost their shirts. When the crash was over some group started to try to make another Bull market. Now it was Willie's pet theory to start buying in such a market, and he did. Nobody in his group sold when there was a profit showing, with one exception. Willie Win had a private secretary—a remarkable and pretty girl; every time he bought she sold, and tucked herself away a cool million. Instead of the market remaining Bullish, Win saw it turn Bearish, and with it went all his millions to cover his losses.

He was one of the cleverest men Wall Street has ever known, but even he made up his mind that he knew nothing about the

WHEELERS RACE SETS RECORD FOR DISTANCE

Every year the speeds achieved in the Manchester Wheelers' open "50" become faster, and the results of the latest race set up a new record for the course, states the Sporting Chronicle of June 27.

There was an entry comprising all the leading half-century specialists of the North and Midlands, and no fewer than three of them—Gilbert and Ross, of the East Liverpool Wheelers, and J. W. Brooke of Gomersal—were on scratch.

As might have been expected, however, Charles Holland, the Midlander, bent the lot, and his one-minute start was sufficient to give him second handicap prize.

The winning time was 2 hr. 12 min. 31 sec., a fine performance for the undulating Shropshire course.

TEAMS COMPARED.

The selections for the English Olympic pursuit team have been criticized and also praised. There are always widely divergent opinions when selections are based on private data.

One fact, however, is beyond dispute, and that is that on the strict book of figures the team do not, at the moment, stand a ghost of a chance against the French team.

INDIAN GOLFER WINS TWO TITLES

The Indian has proved his supremacy in the white man's game of golf.

E. J. Rogers of Oklahoma City, winner of the state amateur golf title, is a 16th blood Ojase. Early Berryhill of Sapulpa, who went to the finals in the tournament, is a 16th Creek and a 16th Cherokee, but is registered as a member of the Creek tribe. Rogers is 29 years old, Berryhill 28.

Rogers is the first man in the history of Oklahoma to hold both the open and amateur titles the same year.

The best time ridden by any combination of Englishmen for the 4,000 metres this season is 5 min. 8 2/5 sec. In Paris, recently, the team of the Velo Club de Levallois, including three of the four Olympic selections, won a distinct championship in 4 min. 59 2/5 sec., with their nearest runners-up three seconds slower.

HIGGINS UNLUCKY.

Bad luck pursued E. W. Higgins, the Manchester Wheelers' sprinter, in his trip to Copenhagen for the Amateur Grand Prix of that city recently.

After beating no less a person than Willy Gerwin, runner-up in the world's championship last year in his heat, the Englishman fell on the banking and was badly bruised in the arm and leg.

In the semi-final he was matched against the world's champion, Harder, but it was not surprising that under the handicap of his injuries he was beaten.

Despite this, and whatever may have happened in the English championship, there is no doubt that Higgins represents real sprinting class.

SOUTH CHINA MADE TO PAY FULL PENALTY

LEGITIMATE CLAIM TO LEAGUE POINTS REFLECTS AN UNSPORTING ACTION

REVISION OF RULES IMPERATIVE

REFUSING to agree to a postponement of their match with the South China in the "B" Division of the Tennis League, when the latter declared their inability to raise a team, the Chinese Recreation Club took the case to the Executive Committee of the L.T.A., and under Rules 6 and 8 of the Tennis League, claimed the match points in default.

Despite the fact that they are perfectly entitled to the points awarded them under the rules, it is generally felt that the C.R.C., adopted an unnecessarily harsh attitude to the whole incident, their action reflecting a spirit quite contrary to that associated with league tennis.

By "VERITAS."

Although the decision of the Executive Committee of the L.T.A., in regard to the scratched match between the "B" Division teams of the Chinese Recreation Club and the South China Athletic Association, in which the C.R.C. claimed and received points in default, will come as no surprise, and was under the strict interpretation of the rules, the only course the committee could adopt, the sympathies of those interested in the tennis league and the healthy sporting competition which it endeavours to promote, will be with South China.

AN UNEVAILABLE TASK.

The "sentence" of the Executive Committee cannot either be reasonably questioned or disagreed with. The committee was confronted with the unenviable task of judging a case purely upon the interpretation of the rules governing its circumstances. Extenuating facts and precedents could not be taken into consideration. Decision had to be based on the fact that the South China scratched a match without the sanction of the committee as demanded by Rule 6.

Nevertheless, the claim forward by the C.R.C. came as a distinct surprise. It is not the first time a club has found itself unable to raise a team and has, with the sanction of its opponents, and without recourse to any rules, scratched the match until a later date mutually agreed upon by the clubs concerned. So established, in fact, has become this precedent, that it was amazing to find a club such as the C.R.C. putting forward their appeal.

THE AIM OF THE LEAGUE.

It was a perfectly legitimate claim, but it is fortunate for the Lawn Tennis Association that every club does not take advantage of the rules in order to secure points. Enquiry would probably reveal the fact that at least a dozen clubs have a perfectly fair claim to points by default under the same ruling as that applied to the incident under discussion.

A tennis league such as that which exists in Hongkong, despite its influence towards strenuous competition, is not intended to offer opportunities alone for clubs to exercise and indicate their superiority over their rivals, and cups, shields, points, victories, and defeats should all be secondary in the minds of the competitors. The league should be (and fortunately has been by the majority of clubs) regarded as an excellent medium for improving one's tennis, of inculcating the team spirit and of pleasant intercourse between the clubs.

AMBIGUOUS RULES.

Leaving alone the more ethical side of the question, an incident such as just arisen, reveals the immediate need of a revision and reconstruction of the league rules. At present they are either far too elastic or, when strictly interpreted, leave one without the slightest opportunity of including extenuating circumstances in one's consideration of a case.

Rule 6 for instance, under which the C.R.C. v. S.C.A.A. disagreement was adjudicated, states that a match can only be postponed either through wet weather which prevents play, or by sanction of the Executive Committee. This means that a team, finding itself incomplete through illness or any other legitimate reason only a few hours before the match is due to be played, has to get the sanction of the Executive Committee or pay the penalty. The very impossibility of securing the sanction of the committee within a few hours shows the impracticability of the ruling.

Heretofore the clubs have recognized this, and in all cases have come to a mutual arrangement over the whole thing. South China themselves have suffered in this respect this summer, but rather than take advantage of the rules, agreed to a rearrangement.

GENEROUS ATTITUDE NEEDED.

One would have liked to have seen such a lead given by one of the leading clubs in the Colony in this direction. It would show, at least, a willingness to give and take, which is an essential factor in a league of the proportion and importance of the Hongkong Lawn Tennis League.

It is difficult to imagine that the principle in such a case as this outweighs in importance the more generous attitude of mutual consideration. Though the inconvenience of last-minute postponements cannot be denied (to which nearly every club in the league could testify) experience in the past has shown that much better results are obtained from a generous attitude and an endeavor to conciliate.

Rules should be regarded more as guides rather than correctives and should be used as such. Constant appealing to laws to settle slight differences which could receive more satisfactory attention from mutual consideration, does more harm than good to any sport.

It is to be hoped that this attitude of mutual assistance will be adopted by all clubs competing in the tennis league in the future.

ANGLO-AMERICAN YACHTING

Britain Well Beaten at Ryde

Ryde, July 21.
The contest between British and American six-metres for the British-America cup continued to-day off Ryde when the American team piled up another big advantage in points, establishing a lead which Britain cannot now overtake.

To-day the American team of four boats came in ahead of the British boats, they being in the following order: Nancy, Bobkat, Lucie and Jill.

A feature of the races has been the consistent performance of Bobkat, which has come in second in all three races while the other three American boats have now won a race apiece.

The score to-day was 26 1/2 points for America and 9 for Britain. For the three races the points now are:

American 75 points, Britain 33.

SOUND CONSERVATIVE JUDGMENT

Like a fortress, the China Realty Company has stood through the years, a source of power in times of progress, a refuge in times of adversity.

The history of this company has been a continuous record of steady successes, the inevitable result of sound conservative judgment. The officers of this company in whom the responsibility of judging mortgageable values has been vested, are men with a keen knowledge of Shanghai real estate values, and so sound and accurate have their forecasts and valuations been, that during the past 20 years, a sum greater than one hundred million taels has been invested in first class mortgages, without one cent of loss in principal or interest.

Whatever adverse conditions have affected Shanghai, the China Realty Company has remained firm, its investments and assets at all times in an unassailable position.

It is with this company that you are invited to invest your funds—to give them an earning power one-third greater than is usual, and yet protected with a margin of safety that has become a recognized factor in the business and finance worlds of Shanghai to-day.

Banking authorities, finance writers and business men, all are shareholders in the China Realty Company. These men have studied the facts—they know that the China Realty Company 8% debenture issue, guaranteed by the entire assets of this soundly established prosperous company offers one of the finest investment opportunities available to-day.

$100 or more, can secure for you a China Realty Company 8% interest bearing investment—we welcome the opportunity to give you further information.

This is No. 30 of a series of advertisements issued to interest Hongkong investors in the liberal investment opportunities offered by the China Realty Company, Shanghai.

LOCAL HEALTH REFORMS

Cadet Officer who is a Chinese scholar.

There should be attached to the Sanitary Department one or more Health Officers seconded from the Medical and Sanitary Department, one of whom should represent the Director of Medical Health Services on the Sanitary Board.

Annual Reports.

The Director of Medical and Sanitary Services as the officer responsible to Government for the health of the Colony, should as a statutory duty once a year, and as often as he may deem it necessary, make a tour of inspection and enquire into the workings of the Sanitary Department submitting his reports to Government direct. The D.M.S.S. should be at liberty to communicate direct with the Medical Officer of Health on matters of Public Health Interest. The D.M.S.S. should not give direct instructions to any member of the staff of the Sanitary Department.

An Advisory Board.

There should be established a Public Health Advisory Board consisting of Heads of Departments and prominent non-officials whose duties would be to consider all matters of public health importance, and to advise Government on matters of policy. The Chairman should be the Hon. Colonial Secretary and the Vice-Chairman the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services.

In the Federated Malay States such Boards have proved their worth over and over again, in evaluating schemes, in promoting harmonious co-operation between departments and in stimulating energy.

Medical and Health Department.

In order to avoid confusion in the future, the title of Director of Medical and Sanitary Services should be changed to that of Director of Medical and Health Services.

The Medical and Health Department should have at its head the Director of Medical and Health Services so that the activities of the Department—investigative, preventive, and curative—shall be under one administrative head, as is the case in all modern health organisations. With one professional head there is:

- (a) Simplicity of control and assurance of proper co-ordination and co-operation between the branches concerned.
- (b) Simplicity of correspondence with consequent clarity and despatch.
- (c) Promptness of action especially in emergency.
- (d) Economy in that there is no duplication of personnel, machinery or equipment.

The Medical Department should consist of:

- (a) The Headquarters Staff.
- (b) The Medical Branch.
- (c) The Investigation and Research Branch.
- (d) The Health Branch.
- (e) The Veterinary Branch.

The Headquarters Staff should include:

- The Director of Medical and Health Services.
- The Deputy Director of Medical and Health Services.
- A Secretary to the Medical and Health Department.

Investigation and Research.

The Investigative and Research Branch should include:

- The Government Bacteriologist.
- The Asst. Bacteriologist who should be called Pathologist.
- The Malarologist who should be also Medical Entomologist.
- The Government Analyst.
- The Asst. Government Analyst.

The Medical or Curative Branch should include:

- A Chief Medical Officer.
- A Senior Surgeon.
- A Senior Physician.
- A Senior Obstetric Officer.
- A Radiologist.
- An Ophthalmologist.
- An Anaesthetist.
- A Dental Surgeon.
- Seven Medical Officers.

The Health or Preventive Branch should include:

- A Chief Health Officer.
- Two Port Health Officers.
- Ten District Health Officers.
- Three Lady Medical Officers.
- A Health Officer for Social Hygiene.
- A Propaganda Officer.
- The Veterinary Branch should include:

- The Government Veterinary Surgeon.
- The Assistant Government Veterinary Surgeon.

"MEN LIKE THESE" may or may not be classed as entertainment, but as an epic of the superb courage and exemplary conduct displayed in the face of disaster by those men who serve under the sea, it is an achievement of which to be proud.

There are no false heroes in this. You will not view these men as actors playing a part... Its realism, especially the drama on the floor of the ocean when the men are trapped in a living tomb, is stunning.

expressionless as he hung up the receiver, but the message must have been a pleasant one because after a minute or two he began whistling.

His task finished, he called the office of the club and asked the porter to come up for his bags. Bob rummaged in his pocket for some silver and gave a last fleeting look about the room as though to be certain he had forgotten nothing. Then he followed the man to the elevator.

When dinner was over Denise wandered from window to window, restless as a jaguar. She was not unlike a slim, padding animal herself in her slinky frock of buttercup yellow satin. It caught the light and its fluid movement followed the slouch of her lovely body.

She lit one cigarette after another only to crush them out again. Now and then she would lift the heavy curtains to peer out into the night.

It was raining steadily in an unrelenting spring downpour. The silence, unbroken save for the snap of the burning logs on the hearth and the beating of raindrops against the window panes, appeared to increase her nervousness.

At last she flung herself into a low chair by the side of the desk and picked up the telephone.

The voice of Bob Dunbar's father presently came crackling over the wire.

"You talked to him, then?" Denise purred. "I don't know why but I've been a little nervous. I began to think he might leave the club before we reached him. That's fine!" When she put down the instrument she wore a look of feline satisfaction.

Denise arose and turned on a radio, cunningly secreted in an eighteenth century cabinet in one corner. To the barbaric strain of jazz music she executed a few dancing steps. Then she switched the dial until the music sounded in a lower key and returned to the telephone. She called a city number and sat drumming lightly on the table as she waited.

"I want to speak to Mr. Robert Dunbar," she said. There was a brief pause while the speaker at the other end consulted someone. "He's registered there," cried Denise impatiently. "His father only just spoke to him." A male voice came back regretfully.

"Sorry, madam, but he's checked out. He said," and here there was another brief wait as though the speaker were referring to some memorandum before him, "he said to tell anyone who called he was leaving to be married."

Denise tore her chiffon handkerchief into strips, her eyes blazing. "His father's an old fool!" she muttered. "He's got away from us!" (To Be Continued.)

POLICE TROUNCED IN SPEY ROYAL CUP MATCH

Never during the whole match did the Police R.C. show any dangerous form in their tie with the Kowloon Bowling Green in the Spey Royal Cup Competition on the Kowloon C.C. green yesterday, when the custodians of the law were trounced 30 shots to 11.

On the first head the Police opened with a single but did not score again until the 13th head, by which time their opponents had gradually increased their lead, by singles on many occasions but by a sufficient margin to give them an overwhelming advantage.

During the later stages of the game each rink scored a five, the biggest accounts of the day.

The Police were represented by E. G. Post, J. C. West, W. E. Holland and W. Male (skip) and the Kowloon Bowling Green rink was composed of R. S. Nichol, W. S. Drake, R. Hall and A. M. Holland.

Championship Match.

P. T. Farrell played C. J. Tacchi on the Kowloon C.C. green in the Open Championship and won a scrappy game 21 shots to 10. The winner will now meet R. S. Nichol.

Teams for Saturday.

The following will represent the Tai Koo R. C. in their matches on Saturday:

1st Team v. Kowloon Dock R. C. (Home): J. B. Chapman, J. Sloan, W. Wetherston, D. Munro (skip); A. Stalker, J. Polson, J. Russell, J. Chalmers (skip); G. McLeod, D. B. Bone, W. Weir, J. Watson (skip).

2nd Team v. Kowloon C. C. (Away): E. Greenwood, J. Wald, T. Grimes, H. McKechnie (skip); A. MacIndoe, T. Swan, S. Hope, C. B. Matthews (skip); D. Peoples, C. H. Summers, G. H. Stewart, H. Keown (skip).

MEN LIKE THESE

My Friend, I do not ask for Men like these
A little dole, a little time at ease.
For them and all who love them, all who mourn,
And all that to their faith shall yet be born,
I ask you this—take them for what they are
Your comrades in the service, Life at War.

QUEEN'S

You are a Shipper—
Not a Tourist!

To a mining man, Seattle means the gateway to Alaska.
To a tourist, Seattle means the heart of a beautiful country.

To a shipper in the Orient, Seattle means the nearest U. S. port... savings in shipping time and money for his American customers.

Such savings have been measured by shippers in both the Orient and the United States time and time again. The investigations have merely increased Seattle's tonnage to and from the Orient.

Ship via Seattle and Save. Ship via Seattle and earn the friendship and pleasure of customers in the United States. For further information write Bell Street Terminal, Seattle, U. S. A.

LOCAL HEALTH REFORMS

Supernumeraries to the extent of 20% are necessary to allow for sickness and leave vacancies.

In addition to the above, there will need be Assistant Investigative Officers, Medical Officers and Health Officers, Sanitary Inspectors, Meat and Food Inspectors, Veterinary Inspectors and Technical Assistants to the staff of the Laboratories.

Health Districts.

The country should be divided up into Health Districts of a size convenient for the supervision of a District Health Officer who would be responsible inside his District for:

1. Registration of Births and Deaths.
2. Maternity and Child Welfare and the supervision of Midwives.
3. School Medical Work.
4. Propaganda and House Visiting.
5. Work under the sale of Food and Drugs Ordinance.
6. Work under the Factories and Workshops Ordinance.
7. Work under the Quarantine and Prevention of Diseases Ordinance, including the Disinfection of infected premises.
8. The collection and delivery of dumped bodies.
9. Anti-mosquito Work.

The Health Districts should be as follows:

1. Victoria East (comprising present Health District 1, 1A, 2, 2A, and Shaikwan having an estimated population of 100,000).
2. Victoria Central (present Health Districts 3, 4, and 5) with a population of 90,000.
3. Victoria West Central (present Health Districts 6, 6A, 7, 7A, and 8) with a population of 90,000.
4. Victoria Western (present Health Districts 9, 10, and 10A) with a population of 90,000.
5. The Peak and South Coast including Pokfulam, Dairy Farm, Aberdeen, Apichau, Deep Water Bay, Repulse Bay, Stanley, Shek O.
6. South Kowloon—estimated population 100,000.
7. Kowloon Central—estimated population 100,000.
8. North Kowloon and New Kowloon—estimated population 100,000.
9. New Territories and Islands and Boat population—200,000.

A Dispensary Launch.

There should be a Dispensary Launch to attend to the needs of the population who reside in boats, and who number over 100,000. Such a launch would become as popular as the River Dispensary Launches in Malaya. Operating as a Medical Relief Boat, it would, when the confidence of the people had been won, figure as a centre for propaganda and prevention purposes.

A Motor Travelling Dispensary such as is used in Malaya is required for work in the New Territories. It would be advantageous if the whole of the investigative staff—Bacteriologists, Pathologists, and analysts—were accommodated at one headquarters. If the Bacteriological Institute were enlarged this could become the centre for research and investigation.

Medical Relief.

With regard to medical relief, there should be one bed for every 300 population for general diseases, and at least one bed for every 3,000 for infectious diseases.

HOUSEWIFE'S DELIGHT IN THE HOT SEASON

Among the latest articles of household comfort and necessity introduced in the Colony is a new model of the famous Electrolux refrigerator, placed on the local market by Messrs.
Shewan Tomes and Co.

The necessity for some kind of refrigeration is demonstrated in every tropical and sub-tropical home and generally takes the form of ice-boxes which, however, seldom if ever rise to the standard of adequate protection against that pest, the cockroach, which makes its home in it and is very apt to contaminate food preserved therein.

The ice-box has also the disadvantage of failing to give a regular refrigeration, the interior temperature being constantly varied by the mere opening of the box, so that a safe and uniform temperature becomes practically impossible.

A perfect larnder must be really cold all the time or food will decay.
There are a number of refrigerators on the market which have very distinct advantages over the old method of preserving food, all of which have excellent points in their favour, but it is claimed for the Electrolux, and the claim was borne out by an ocular test, that it has certain advantages not to be found in any other apparatus. For instance it has no motors or other moving parts; a small amount of water takes the place of these.
Moreover the running costs are low as the refrigerator is run by kerosene, gas or electricity, consuming from one-fifth to one-third of a gallon of kerosene, from two to three cubic feet of gas, or from 200 to 300 watts of electricity a day according to the size of the apparatus.

The Electrolux is hailed as a triumph of British manufacture and has found great favour in the United States, South Africa and a score of other places.

MR. QUO TAI-CHI.

CONFERS WITH AMERICAN SECRETARY

Washington, July 27.
Mr. Quo Tai-chi has had a talk with Mr. Stimson, on the subject it is reported, of the Far Eastern situation.

Interviewed by Reuter later, Mr.
Quo Tai-chi said that floods, famine, war and foreign invasion had brought the Chinese people together and they were moving along on a united front, hopeful for the future.

Mr. Quo Tai-chi is leaving for London on Thursday.—Reuter's

CHINESE POSTAL OFFICIALS RESORT TO DISGUISE

Peking, July 27.
Despite all Japanese efforts to persuade the Chinese postal employees in Manchuria to remain in the service of the Manchukuo, it is learned that 2,500 out of 3,000 employees have remained loyal to the Chinese Post Office, and are now evacuating Manchuria to report for duty at Post Offices in China.

It is reported that the Japanese are instituting a rigid search of Shanghai in order to detain the evacuating employees, and as a result a number of high postal officials have been forced to resort to disguise in order to leave Manchuria.—Reuter's Special.

Making Loss Good.

Nanking, July 27.
The Government has decided, in view of the revenue deficit resulting from the seizure of the customs in Manchuria, that a 10 per cent. surtax will be imposed for flood relief purposes, and which, should the deficit be reduced on August 1, will carry on at the same rate for not more than a year.—

London, July 27.
Labour gained a seat in the bye-election for the Wednesbury constituency of the House of Commons to-day, scoring a signal victory as the last election resulted in a majority of 4,158 for the Conservative candidate.

The election resulted:
Mr. Banfield (Labour) 21,977
Mr. Davis (Conservative) 18,198

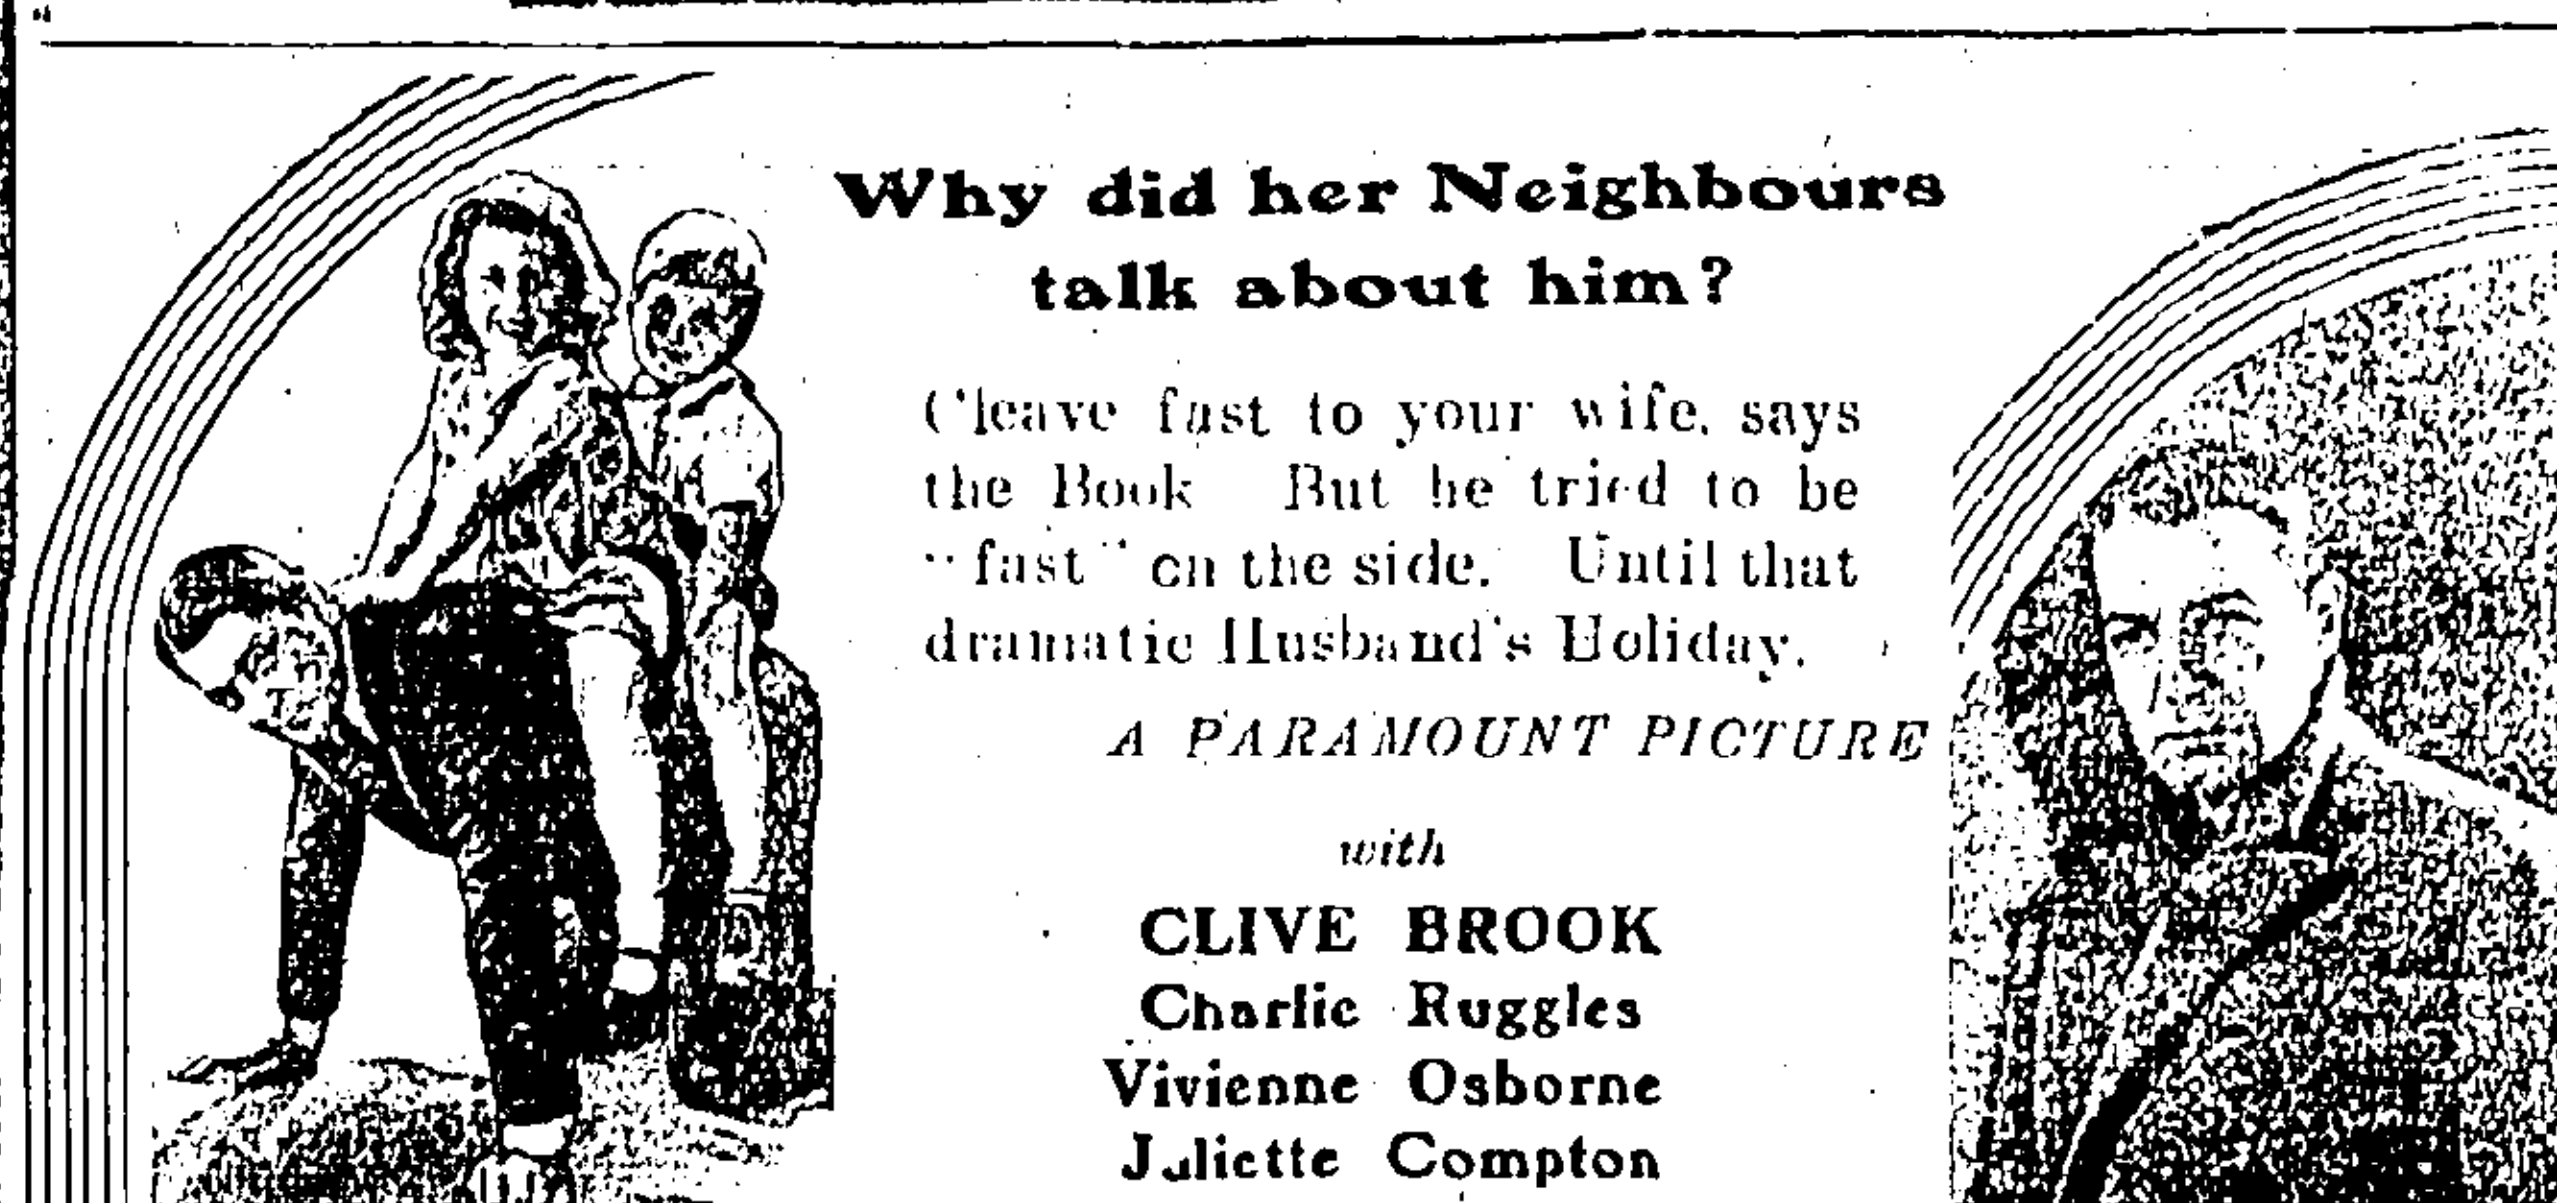

Majority for Labour 3,779
The bye-election was caused by the succession to the peerage of Viscount Ednam on the death of his father, the Earl of Dudley.—

last. The "bomb" turned out to be a harmless firework.]

SWEDISH SUBMARINE SUNK: ESCAPE DRAMA

SURREY AIR DISASTER

THREE SOCIETY FOLK KILLED

AMERICAN HEIRESS AND SON

M. P.'S. DOUBLE TRAGEDY

London, July 28.

Three people prominent in London Society were killed to-day in an air crash at Farnham, Surrey.

The victims of the terrible tragedy were:

Mrs. A. C. Bossom, wife of the Member of Parliament for Maidstone, and an alderman of the L.C.C.

Bruce Bossom, their 21-year-old son.

Count Othoerbach Furstenau, a young German friend of Mr. Bruce Bossom.

The party went up in Mr. Bruce Bossom's private plane from Heston Aerodrome on a pleasure flight yesterday afternoon, the young man taking the controls. He had had considerable flying experience, having many fine flights to his credit.

SUDDEN SWOOP TO DEATH.

At the moment, there is no explanation forthcoming for the disaster. The aeroplane appeared to be proceeding smoothly enough, was suddenly seen to be in difficulties and crashed like a stone.

The bodies were so badly mutilated that recognition was almost impossible. Furthermore, they were found widely separated several hundred feet from the wreckage of the machine. It is presumed that they endeavoured to jump clear of the doomed plane at the last moment.

MOTHER AND ELDER SON.

Mrs. Bossom was well-known in American society before she married the international architect, Alfred Charles Bossom in 1910. She was the daughter of Samuel G. Bayne, the President of the Seaboard National Bank of New York.

Bruce was the eldest of the three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Bossom and had been very keen on flying for years.

Count Furstenau was a visitor from Germany whom the Bossoms were entertaining.

EPSTEIN STATUE OWNERS.

Mr. and Mrs. Bossom received considerable, if unwelcome, notoriety some little time ago when they purchased Epstein's famous and severely-criticised statue "Genesis," which they kept at their London residence, 5, Carlton Gardens, S.W.1.—Reuter.

BROKER FOUND POISONED

UNCONSCIOUS IN GLOUCESTER BLDG.

According to reports in circulation this morning, Mr. C. Benjamin, a well-known local broker, was found unconscious in his room in Gloucester Building last night, under circumstances which suggest that he was suffering from poisoning.

Mr. Benjamin was later removed to the French Hospital, where he is now recovering.

BANK CRASH SENSATION

COMMUNIST PLOT IN AMERICA

WHISPERING CAMPAIGN REVELATIONS

New York, July 27.

Sensational revelations are made to-day in connexion with the steadily growing list of bank failures, suggesting that the collapses have been due to a carefully-planned plot for undermining public confidence.

The police of Pontiac, Michigan, to-day raided a hotel bedroom where they found evidence of a well-organised Communist plot to destroy the credit of the banks by anonymously passing alarmist messages over the telephone to depositors.

The "telephone whispering" campaign has been going on for some considerable time and it is believed that a large proportion of the panic runs on various banks all over the country originated as a result.

CO-ORDINATED SCHEME.

Federal officials declare that they have been watching a number of similar campaigns in different parts of the country, but there seems to be little doubt that they are part of a co-ordinated scheme for destroying confidence.

It is, however, admitted that while the vast majority of these whispering campaigns have been deliberate attempts to wreck the banks, some have been the work of unbalanced cranks.

Eight hundred and eight banks have suspended payment in the first half-year, of which 275 have been in Chicago.—Reuter.

MR. HENDERSON'S OPTIMISM

NOT DONE WITH THE HOOVER PLAN

VERSAILLES TREATY

London, July 27.

Mr. Arthur Henderson, who has just returned to London after six months in Geneva where he presided over the Disarmament Conference, interviewed by the London Star to-day said that although he was not completely satisfied with the conference's results to date he thought that pessimism about its final achievements were unjustified.

"What people are liable to forget," he said, "is that 64 nations are represented at Geneva, all with different armament problems, and it is not easy, though not impossible, to adjust so many viewpoints."

"We have not yet done with the Hoover proposals, the Simon resolution to abolish aggressive weapons or the clause in the Versailles Treaty which says that Germany agreed to disarm as a preliminary to a general disarmament on part of the victor nations in the Great War. Those three points, coupled with the desire of the peoples of the world for disarmament, are my main reasons for optimism."—British Wireless.

GOUGULOFF TO DIE

INSANITY DEFENCE REJECTED

VERDICT OF WILFUL MURDER

Paris, July 27.

Paul Gouguloff, the Russian assassin of M. Paul Doumer, President of France, was to-day found guilty at the Paris Assizes, and sentenced to death by the guillotine.

Gouguloff was found guilty of murder with premeditation, the jury taking barely half an hour to agree upon their verdict of wilful murder while of sound mind.

The question of the prisoner's sanity was really the only issue in the case, the facts of the assassination being accepted by the defence.

The effort of Maître Geraud, the principal lawyer for the defence, to Gouguloff, the assassin of M. Paul Doumer, sentenced to death yesterday, shown in an ante-room of the court.

establish his case that Gouguloff was and is insane, was emphasised by the accused's demeanour throughout the trial.

HYSTERICAL OUTBURSTS.

He made hysterical admissions of his guilt, demanding to die.

The final scenes were punctuated by his renewed outbursts, interspersed with incoherent lamentations. He was continually interrupting his counsel's pleas for mercy.

Gouguloff towards the end was on the verge of collapse. He writhed in his seat; his neckwear became undone; he was breathing painfully.

MYSTIC RANTING.

When the verdict of the Court was announced, however, Gouguloff received it in perfect quiet and with a martyr-like smile. The scene was followed by more mystic ranting when he was led to the cells below.

The Paris police have never been able to satisfy themselves whether the murder was instigated by a political faction, no other member of the "Russian Fascist Party" has ever been found and the Communists disclaim any connexion with him.—Reuter.

WORK FOR LIFE 250 FT. DOWN

TRAPPED CREW SLIP OFF LEAD KEEL

ALL SAVED

JUST SUFFICIENT BUOYANCY

(Reuter's Special Service).

Stockholm, July 27.

A naval drama enacted off the Swedish coast to-day had a sensational termination, one of the most miraculous escapes from death and disaster in the history of the sea.

It began with a collision between the Swedish cruiser, Fylgia, and the submarine, Baevern. The Baevern was damaged and sunk immediately, carrying her entire crew to the bottom.

Assistance was rushed to the scene from several points and surface craft were busily engaged in efforts to get into contact with the apparently doomed submarine, when close to where she had gone down, her hull was seen to break the surface of the water.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

The story of the wonderful escape of the crew was then related.

The submarine, after the collision, which occurred when Swedish naval craft was returning to harbour after manoeuvres, sank to a depth of 250 feet.

Several of her compartments had been flooded by the collision damage and the crew were faced with the thought that they were doomed. The atmosphere of drama in the submarine, the crew's thoughts, are more easily imagined than described.

LEAD KEEL BROKEN AWAY.

Her officers worked with magnificent coolness and resource, however. When it was discovered that the craft would not respond to any of the normal methods of bringing her to the surface, orders were given for the releasing of the heavy lead keel.

DROP-KEEL MECHANISM.

All modern submarines are equipped with a drop-keel mechanism, which is controlled from the interior of the submarine, enabling the keel to be cast off in an emergency such as the crew were faced with in this instance.

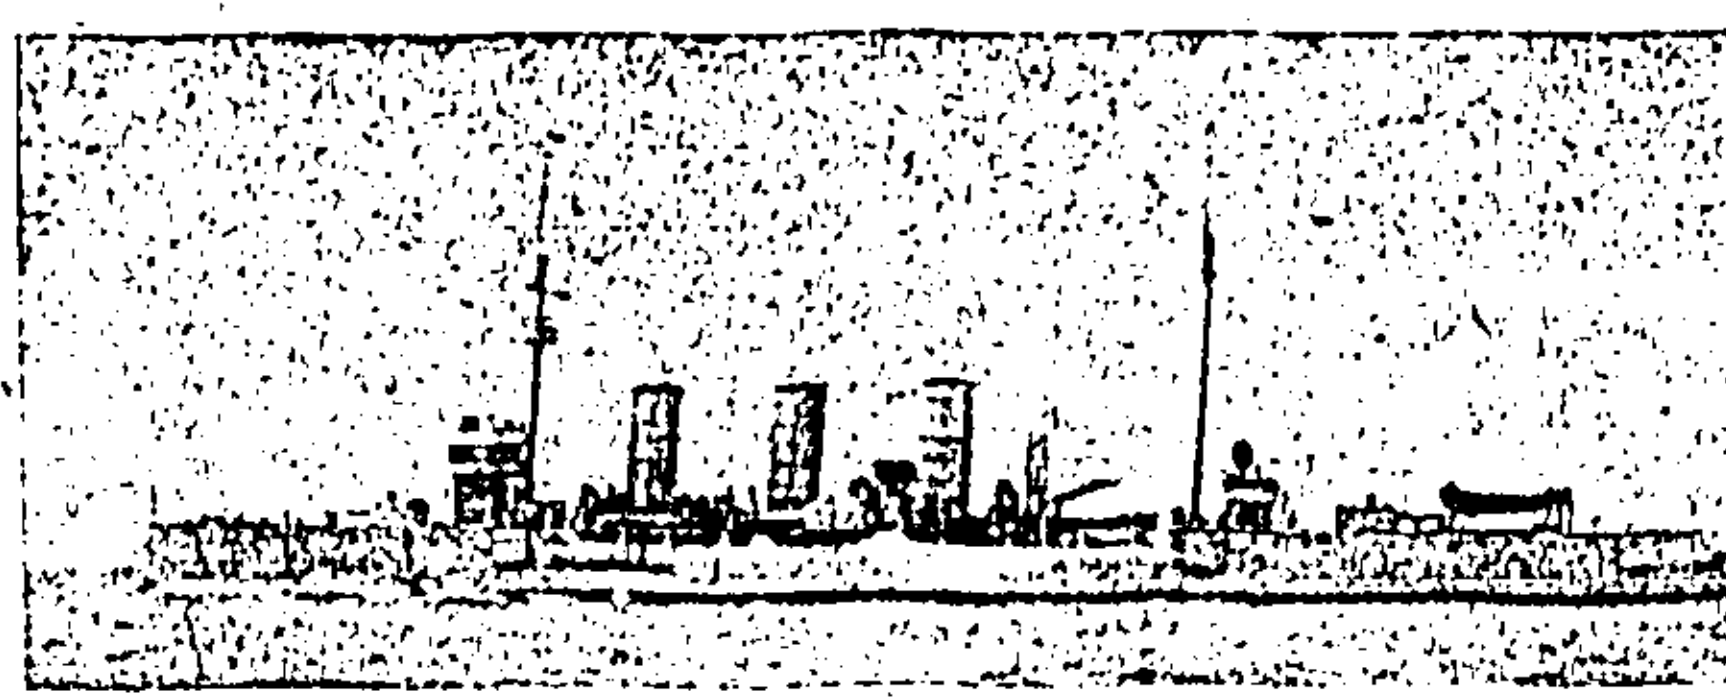

It is usually the very last measure that is taken because having once been released it cannot be recovered. The weight varies according to the size of the boat and would probably be equivalent to two or three full tanks of water, ten tons or more.

The throwing off of this weight gave the craft just sufficient buoyancy to enable her to rise slowly to the surface.

MODERN CRAFT.

The Baevern is one of the most modern of Swedish submarines, having a speed of 15 knots on the surface and 9 knots below. Her displacement is 600 tons on the surface and 650 tons submerged. She has four torpedo-tubes, but no heavy gun on her deck, which is equipped with an anti-craft 6-pounder and a machine-gun. There are only three more modern vessels in the service, all three being based upon the Baevern model.

JAPANESE LYTTON REPORT FEARS

ANXIETY CONFESSED IN LONDON SPEECH

CRITICAL HOUR IN HER HISTORY

London, July 27.

Japan's anxiety regarding the findings of the Lytton Commission as a result of the inquiry into the Manchuria invasion, were confessed in London to-night.

A plea for understanding and co-operation from Europe with Japan in her hour of crisis was made by Colonel Homma, the Japanese Military Attache, speaking at a dinner of the Japan Society in honour of himself, his wife, and the veteran Japanese statesman, Mr. Yukio Ozaki.

ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE.

Colonel Homma declared that the spirit of the old Anglo-Japanese Alliance was still alive. He thought it was stronger to-day than ever.

The most critical hour in Japanese history was, he said, approaching with the presentation of the Lytton Report. Japan was convinced of the justice of her cause. England would be the first to realise how vital the Manchurian question was to Japan and to recognise the legitimacy of the action in self-defence of the Japanese Army in China.

BRITISH SYMPATHY.

Britain's sympathetic mediation in the councils of Europe in the last few months had tremendously helped and encouraged Japan through a difficult time when

OTTAWA

New Dominion Proposals

Britain Keeping Open Mind

Ottawa, July 27.

Further progress is recorded at the Imperial Economic Conference, notwithstanding official reticence which precludes a definite appraisal of the length of the forward strides.

The special Meat Committee of the Dominions has, it is reported, agreed to recommend preferences on butter ranging from 15 to 20 per cent.

The proposals in all cases will be submitted to the United Kingdom delegation for final decision.

NO EXTRAVAGANT DEMANDS.

It is understood to-night that the Dominions Meat Committee's report avoids extravagant demands and does not ask for preferences but for quantitative restrictions.

Any reports purporting to indicate the attitude of the United Kingdom delegation to any of the proposals of the Dominions may be taken as unfounded as the British delegation is keeping an open mind until the picture has been completed with the receipt of all the pro-she had to face the gross misunderstanding and antagonism of the world at large.

"But the most critical period in our history regarding the Manchurian question has yet to come. We are ardently hoping for hearty co-operation and understanding from Europe in our national crisis."—Reuter.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney.

The following hand appears rather simple, but it is peculiar to note that in a duplicate tournament, when this hand was played, not one pair succeeded in making the five no trump. As a matter of fact, at several tables, only one no trump was made.

 ♠ 7-3 ♥ A-Q-7-6-4-2 ♦ K-J-9-3 ♣ K 	 ♠ A-4-2 ♥ K-J-9 ♦ 5 ♣ 10-9-8-6-4-2
 ♠ Q-10-5 ♥ 8-5-3 ♦ Q-10-8-7-6-4 ♣ 5 	 ♠ A-4-2 ♥ K-J-9 ♦ 5 ♣ 10-9-8-6-4-2

The Bidding.

The hand was played in a duplicate contract match. South, the dealer, holds two five-card suits and the required two and one-half quick tricks. When holding two biddable five-card suits the higher ranking suit is bid first, therefore South bid one spade. West passed and North bid two hearts. East passed and South went to three clubs. North then bid three no trump which bought the contract.

The Play.

East has the opening lead. Some players holding 10, nine, eight will lead the 10 spot—the top of the three-card sequence—while others prefer the lead of a 10 spot to show a higher honour, such as queen, 10, nine. The East player in this case played the six of clubs, his fourth best club, dummy played small and North, the declarer, won the trick with the king.

In order to go game, the declarer must establish the spade suit. The seven of spades is led by declarer and when East plays the deuce, the declarer finesesses the jack which goes to West's queen. West returns his fourth best diamond, declarer plays the nine which holds the trick.

The only way for the declarer to go game now is to find the ace of spades in the East hand. Therefore, the three of spades is led by the declarer and when East plays the four, declarer goes right up with the king in dummy which holds the trick, and returns a small spade hoping for a split in the spades. East won the trick with the ace and returned the 10 of clubs which the dummy won with the ace, declarer discarding the four of hearts. The two good spades are cashed in dummy, declarer discarding the six and seven of hearts, East discarding the nine of hearts and deuce of clubs.

The ace of diamonds is played from dummy, East is forced to discard the four of clubs. Declarer now has more good tricks than is necessary. The three clubs are good in dummy and he also holds the good ace of hearts and the king of diamonds.

By establishing his side suit, the declarer has made five no trump.

MIGRATION SCHEME

RELIEF FOR DEPRESSED JAPANESE FARMERS

Tokyo, July 27.
As a relief measure for the depressed agrarian population, the department of Overseas Affairs is considering the financing of large scale immigration to Manchuria, Mongolia and Brazil. The estimated cost of the scheme is 3,000,000 yen, appropriation for which will be referred to the forthcoming extraordinary session of the Diet.—Reuter's Special.

LOCAL HEALTH REFORMS

DR. WELLINGTON'S PROPOSALS

CO-ORDINATION

Important recommendations are made by the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services, Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington, in his report to the authorities on the proposed reorganization on modern lines of the Medical and Sanitary Services of the Colony. The report has been forwarded to the Sanitary Board for comment.

A covering letter from the Colonial Secretariat to the President of the Sanitary Board, states:

"With reference to your letter No. 257-29 of the 17th September, 1930, I am directed to forward for the information of the Board and for any comments which the Board may wish to make the accompanying copy of recommendations submitted by the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services for the reorganization on modern lines of the Medical and Sanitary Services of the Colony."

2. One measure, the Births and Deaths Registration Amendment Ordinance has already been passed and legislation designed to give effect to other recommendations is under consideration.

I am, etc.,

(sd.) R. A. C. NORTH,
Colonial Secretary."

The Recommendations.

Dr. Wellington's recommendations are as follows:

The laws dealing with Quarantine and Prevention of Disease should be grouped together under one Ordinance and Quarantine and Prevention of Disease Ordinance. This Ordinance would not only deal with human infectious disease of an epidemic character such as plague, cholera and small-pox, but with less dangerous infectious diseases such as diphtheria, measles, etc., and with special disease such as malaria, tuberculosis, leprosy. Vaccination would be included. The scope of the Ordinance should be extended to include animal diseases, animal quarantine and the control of slaughter-houses.

Food and Drugs.

The Sale of Food and Drugs Ordinance should be amended so as to allow of Health Officers taking action and to ensure that none but Government Analysts shall be analysts under the Act. The scope of this Act should be extended so as to include provisions for insuring the purity of foods and drugs sold, and to prevent the sale of food and drugs unfit for human consumption. It should include provisions for licensing places where food is prepared for sale and for places where food is sold either retail and wholesale and for eating houses, restaurants and dairies. There should be a Factory and Workshop Ordinance for dealing with the sanitation of factories and workshops, for regulating the hours of work allowed, and for ensuring proper precautions being taken in the case of dangerous trades.

A Sanitation Ordinance.

All matters relating to Urban sanitation, houses, drains, scavenging, and town cleansing, conservancy and sewerage, and the licensing of premises other than those where food is sold or prepared for sale, should come under a Sanitation Ordinance. There should be a clause authorising the Governor to apply any or all the provisions to villages and rural areas.

Regulations regarding the construction of buildings should come under a Building Ordinance.

There should be an Ordinance for Town Planning and Town Improvement.

Administration.

The Quarantine and Prevention of Disease Ordinance, the Sale of Drugs Ordinance, and the Factories and Workshops Ordinance should be administered by the Medical and Health Department.

The Registrar of Births and Deaths should be the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services.

The Town Planning and Town Improvement Ordinance should be administered by a Board which should contain the D.P.W. and the D.M.S.S.

The Water Authority under the Water Works Ordinance should be a Board on which the D.M.S.S. has a seat.

The Buildings Ordinance should be administered by the Public Works Department.

The Sanitation Ordinance should be administered by the Sanitary Board and the Sanitary Department.

Sanitary Department's Scope.

The Sanitary Department, which under the new scheme will confine its attention to sanitation in the restricted sense of the term, will deal with town cleansing, housing, scavenging, conservancy, the control of certain trades, and the sanitary supervision of places of assembly such as common lodging houses, theatres etc., etc.

In most up-to-date cities the head of such an organisation would be the Municipal Engineer. In Panama it is the Health Officer. In Hongkong, because of the desire of certain of the Chinese to have a buffer interposed between them and the professional hygienist, it is recommended that until public opinion is more educated on matters of hygiene and sanitation the post of "Head of the Sanitary Department" shall be held by a (Continued on Page 10.)

After his outline of the scheme for the War Loan Conversion Mr. Chamberlain explained that the need for secrecy had prevented him from printing the millions of forms required. Yet he hoped that within 24 hours they would be in the post. The task was carried out with an hour and a half to spare. Our picture shows the distributing station where the 15,000,000 forms notifying the scheme were prepared for dispatch.—(Times copyright).

With strenuous days of work and bitter political warfare looming ahead of them, delegates swarmed the aisles of Chicago Stadium as you see them above at the start of the Democratic National Convention.

Jumping into the aisles and waving aloft their stage banners, delegates to the Democratic convention broke into an early demonstration of enthusiasm at the very mention in the keynote speech of repeal of the dry law.

With rival forces marshalled for the battle over candidate and platform planks, delegates to the Democratic National Convention presented this appearance in Chicago's giant stadium. Mr. Franklin Roosevelt secured the necessary two-thirds majority after a pact with Mr. Garner, another candidate for the presidential nomination.

MAN HUNTER

BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

Susan Curry, secretly in love with Bob Dunbar but engaged to Ernest Heath, a much older man, suddenly finds herself free. Heath releases her chivalrously, realising her heart is not his. She tells Bob the news and he urges an early marriage. Dunbar's father, a proud financier, interposes. He tells Susan such a marriage will ruin Bob's life. He wants his son to marry Denise Ackroyd, society girl. Susan, perplexed, asks Ray Flannery, a friend for advice. Ray tells her to follow the dictates of her heart.

CHAPTER XLVII.

Bob's father left Susan's home confident of triumph. The girl had seemed quite malleable, humble in fact. He rubbed his hands together, smiling softly at the memory of his own eloquence. He had taken exactly the right tone, he felt. Calling the affair "puppy love" had been precise, and yet it had also the shadow of the jocular. The phrase had indicated that he, a man of the world, smiled understandingly at these exhibitions while deploring them.

Although he refused to recognize it the suspicion began to grow in his mind that there had been something not quite noble in his own behaviour. Mr. Dunbar liked to think himself noble above all things. But after the first glow of complacency had died he began to remember the pallor of the girl's face and the look in her eyes. He shrugged impatiently. It was nonsense even to think of it for a moment. Who was she? A mere nobody. It was his son's future he must consider, not the feelings of an unknown girl.

It this mood he returned to his office. His secretary wondered what had happened to put him in such an irritable humour. It must be Mr. Bob again, she decided, and thought for the thousandth time how strange it was that a man who was such a power in the world of affairs should be so helpless in the management of his own son.

Dunbar snapped and growled at everyone. Nothing suited him. Late in the afternoon he roared at the quiet, efficient creature who had endured his nagging for 15 years without complaint, ordering her to get Miss Ackroyd on the wire. This done, his mood lightened and the office staff gave thanks. He bustled about like a whirlwind, flinging orders right and left, announcing on the threshold that he was leaving for the day.

The boy would come round all right, the father reflected as he rode home. Lucky it was that he had found out about the affair in time to spike a hasty marriage. There would be no newspaper talk, no distressing business of annulment. All this was just a little flurry. Most young men went through the same thing. At the station Dunbar dismissed his own chauffeur who was waiting. "Miss Ackroyd is driving me home," he explained, pointing at the silver grey roadster parked a little ahead of the Dunbar limousine.

Denise welcomed the captain of finance gaily and charmingly. She looked exotic in her fitted black cloth suit with a swirl of silver fox. The man approved of her. From the tips of her slender shoes to the crown of her Paris hat she was exactly what he would have chosen for a daughter-in-law. He stepped into the car and Denise started the engine.

"What's up, darling?" He smiled at her benignly. He liked her smooth impudence. No one else would have dared to call this old lion "darling." "It's settled," he told her with complacency. Denise pretended not to understand.

"What is?" she wanted to know. "Everything we talked about last night."

Denise widened her eyes with flattering amazement. "Who did it?" He preened himself. "Who do you suppose?"

She took one slim gloved hand from the wheel to lay it caressingly on his arm. "Marvelous!" she murmured. He pretended to growl at her. "Watch the road, young woman, or we'll be in the ditch." "You know better," pouted Denise. "I can drive in my sleep."

"That's true," he admitted. "You do everything well." They smiled at each other understandingly. Each admired the other's ruthlessness, the ability to take what was wanted with a quick casual hand. Denise increased the roadster's speed.

"Well, that's that," she said with her tinkling laugh. "Where do we go from here?"

Dunbar knitted his brows. "I thought we'd give him a few hours, maybe a day, to cool off," he said.

Practicing the hymn which he sang at a great open air mass during the Eucharistic Congress, John McCormack is shown above at the altar in Phoenix Park, Dublin. The famous Irish-American tenor attended the congress as a papal count.

"Then I'll call him up and tell him he'd better come home." "Do you know where he is?" "Of course," the man shrugged. "I had my secretary call his club today. He's registered there."

"Smart thing," breathed Denise. "After Bob comes back," pursued the father, "I think we'd better settle matters between you and him for good. This nonsense has dragged on long enough. How about a small wedding and then a trip to South America? The boy's been talking about that for some time. He's been restless."

"It suits me," Denise said. She turned the car into the drive and drew up neatly before the door. "You don't want me to drop him a line or anything?" she asked sweetly. "No, I think perhaps you'd better not," he said. "He's stubborn as a mule sometimes and we'll have to go about this very carefully. In a week's time," he prophesied, "Bob will be a sailing the high seas with you and will have forgotten he ever had any other plans."

"You clever thing," sighed the girl. "I'll do just as you say." She hummed softly to herself as she drove away. How simple it all was. Then her smile vanished and a little sharp line appeared around the corners of her mouth. The melting sweetness she had exhibited for Mr. Dunbar's benefit was replaced by a look of stony determination. Wouldn't she make Bob pay for all this later. It would be fun, she thought, to see him jump when she cracked the whip. Denise drove like a demon and her smile was nothing to see.

In a narrow room furnished agreeably with old English oak a young man was packing a travelling bag. His expression was stern, his eyes intent. He laid out shirts and handkerchiefs with methodical care. On a luggage rack in one corner of the room lay a huge pigskin case initialed in gold. Everything about the place indicated departure. The telephone rang and the young man answered. He frowned, putting his hand over the mouthpiece instinctively as if wishing to gain time.

He said very quietly, "Yes, of course. Any time you say. At one then."

The young man's face was quite

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRE.

Here are the views of American critics on "Men Like These"—"Graphic and thrilling... Depicts realistically and credibly how men, trapped inside a sunken submarine, conduct themselves. There is a marked effect of genuineness in the scenes inside the disabled submarine, and they seem to have been taken from actual life... Assuredly a grim, nerve-wrecking picture."—Willam Buchel in New York World-Telegram.

"An exciting pictorial record of the sinking of a British submarine named in collision with a freighter. It has no story, but that doesn't prevent it from holding the interest every foot of the way... The underwater scenes are unusually good, and the behavior of the submarine crew is excellent."—Motion Picture Daily.

"Harrowing experiences of crew in sunken British submarine, rescued with skill... 'Caric's a wealth of human appeal and is built for thrill fan.'"—Film Daily.

"This merits the attention of every type of theatre. In addition to being vivid and dramatic it possesses an educational value and a logical side in connection with the submarine. There is a real life, a suspense, and a gripping sensation which makes the 15 minutes running time far less."—Variety.

"Most apt is 'Trapped in a Submarine,' sponsored by the British Admiralty. In it we see more things of which we have heard much but know little. It depicts vividly the dangers that beset the men on a submarine, and the ways in which they may be rescued from these perils. It is well constructed and presents some excellent shots of submarines and the life aboard them."—N.Y. Post Standard.

"One Hour with You." When Armistice day comes around, Maurice Chevalier thanks God that he is alive after his harrowing war experiences. He nearly died from a serious wound, was captured by the enemy and finally escaped back across the lines. The Frenchman, now starring in Paramount's "One Hour With You," was one of the first on the firing line when war broke out in France. During an enemy attack at Outry, in the east of France, he fell, blood pouring from his mouth, from a shell wound in the lung. He regained consciousness in a German hospital and when he could be moved he was sent to the prison camp at Alten Grahov near Magdeburg. He suffered terribly from the effects of his wound, but his gaiety was unimpaired. With some congenial fellow-prisoners he organized concerts in the camp and one night the camp commandant with several German generals came to the show. Chevalier amused them immensely and his popularity gave him the freedom of the camp. Chevalier was invalided home to Paris. His wound was such that he could not continue in military service. He was decorated with the Croix de Guerre for gallant conduct at Outry.

Chevalier again has Jeanette MacDonald as his leading lady in "One Hour With You," which comes to the King's and Oriental Theatres starting on Sunday. Miss MacDonald played opposite the famous star in "The Parade" two years ago.

"Condemned to Death." It will be remembered that Arthur Wontner and Jane Welsh, who have leading parts in "Condemned to Death", opening to-day at the Queen's also both appeared in "The Sleeping Cardinal", a former Twickenham film which had such a success in America.

Arthur Wontner gave a remarkable performance as Sherlock Holmes in this picture, and consequently Jane got into the habit of calling him "Sherlock" on the set. During one of the more emotional scenes in "Condemned to Death" she became rather carried away by the intensity of her acting, and in the middle of a take unwittingly addressed Mr. Wontner as Sherlock. When everybody had recovered it was thought advisable to take the scene again!

"Husband's Holiday."

Paramount has convened another one of its all-favorites casts for "Husband's Holiday", the modern triangle-drama based on Ernest Pascal's novel and play, "The Marriage Bed", which is showing at the King's Theatre to-day.

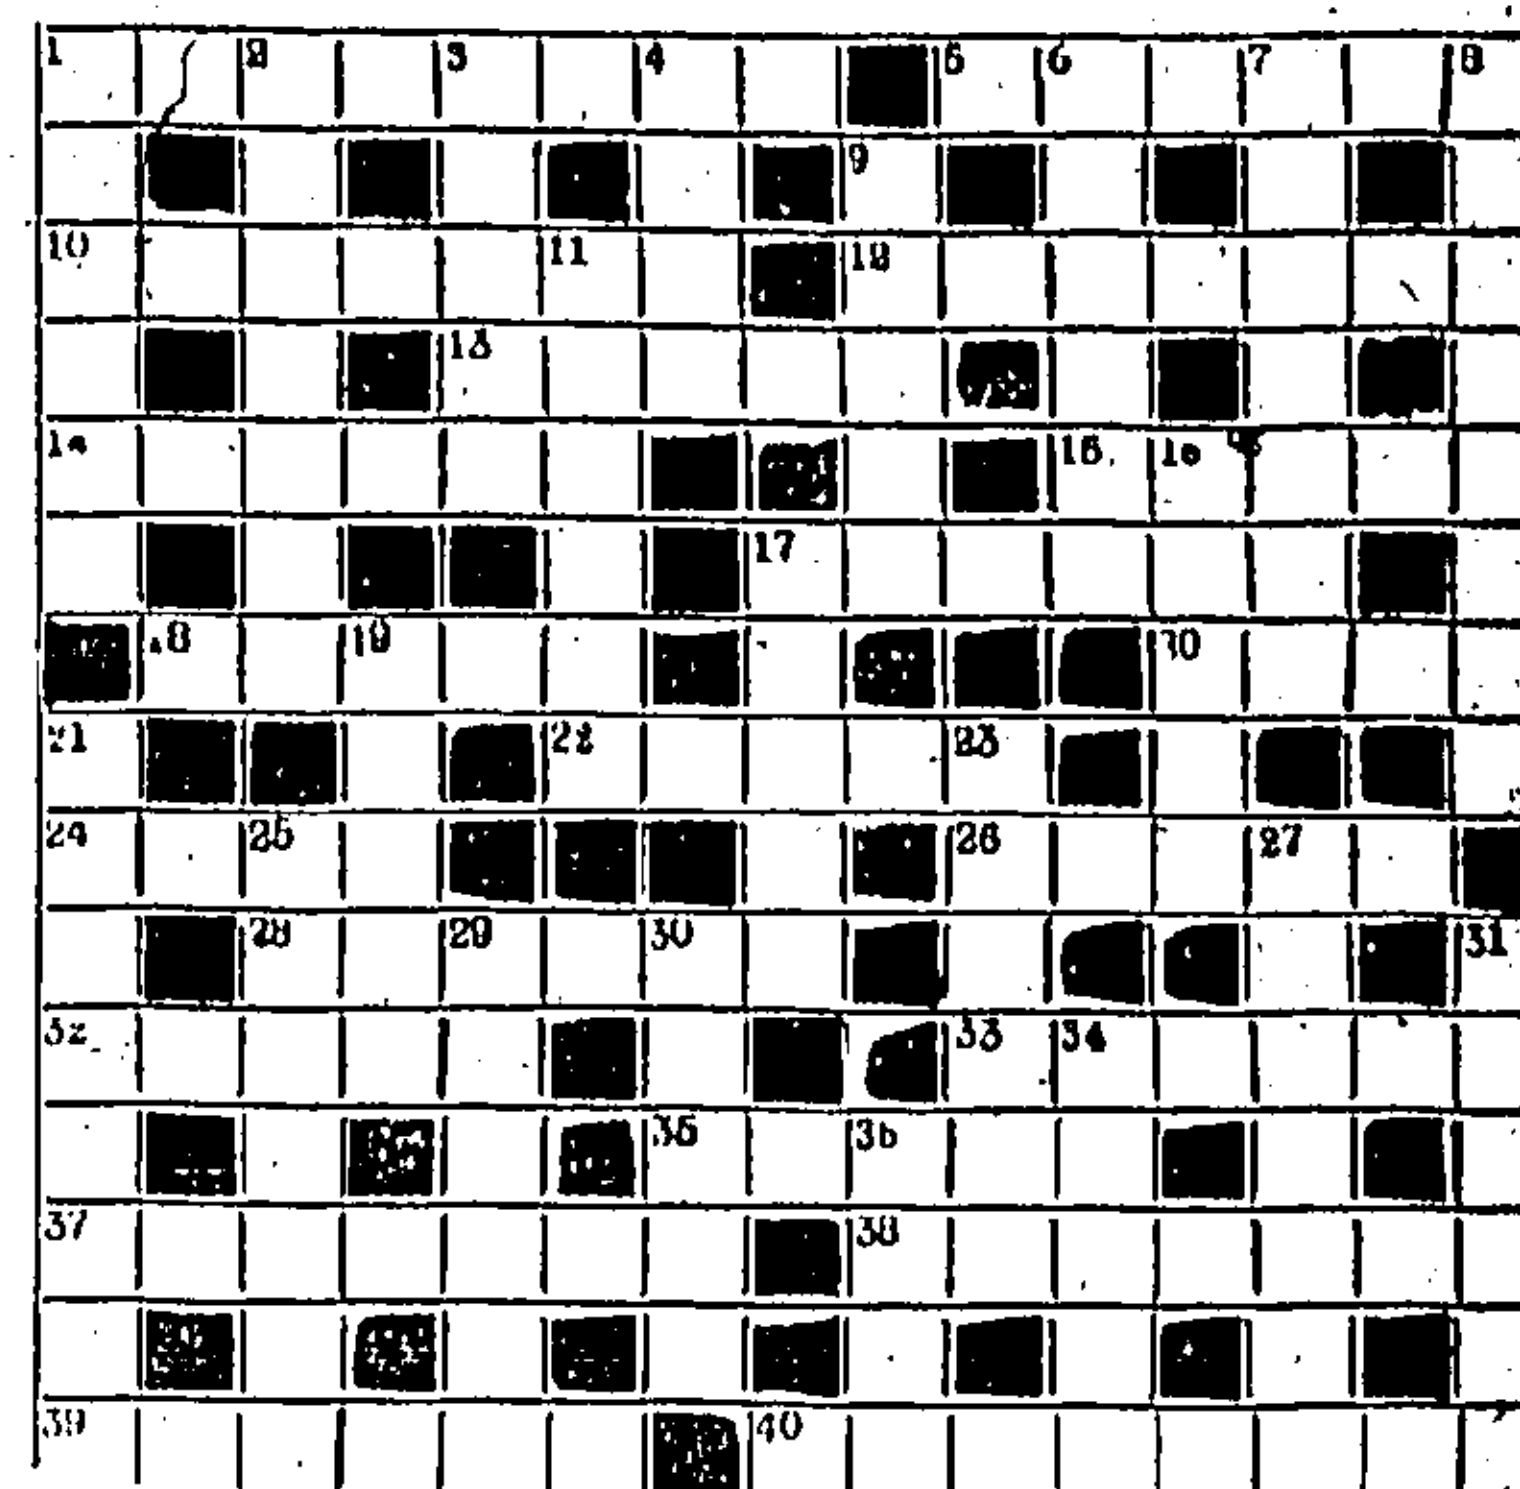

Clive Brook, whose artistry is of such a high calibre that he has never yet drawn an adverse critique from any major writer, heads the big cast as George Boyd, a romantic-minded husband who runs away from, rather than faces the boredom of middle-class married life.

The part of Mary Boyd, his wife, is played by Vivienne Osborne, the brunette charmer who was Paul Lukas' "Old girl friend" in "The Beloved Bachelor."

Charlie Ruggles, the droll comedian of "The Girl Habit", "The Beloved Bachelor" and many other successes, is seen in a whimsical portrayal as Clyde Saunders, one of the many middle-class "in-laws" of this play.

Juliette Compton, the sirenlike charmer of George Banerji's "Rich Man's Polly" and Ruth Chatterton's "Unfaithful", plays the part of the

BRITISH GOODS

It cannot be otherwise than gratifying to all good Britons to note that the official trade returns for the first six months of this year show a marked advance in the importations of British goods into this Colony. If China be excluded, the largest share of our import trade during that period has to be credited to the United Kingdom. Two years ago, the British share was only just over nine per cent. For the six months just ended, it has risen to over thirteen per cent. But whilst these figures represent a steady advance, it is difficult to see much outward evidence of large influx of British commodities. It will, of course, be realised in this connexion that considerable quantities of our imports eventually find their way into the interior markets, whilst trade statistics include such things as machinery and other industrial equipment, not usually figuring in retail business.

The recent Empire Products Fair undoubtedly did a great deal in bringing to the notice of the public various lines of British goods. More than one householder visiting the Fair expressed surprise that there were such excellent products of British origin available in the Colony. That fact of itself illustrated one thing—namely, that there had been no particular effort on the part of shopkeepers to push such commodities. But the Fair did whet the appetite of British residents for Empire products. The pity of it is, if we are to judge from our own observations and from the outspoken letters appearing in the Press, that these British goods appear in many instances to be stacked away out of sight, and are seldom advertised. There are outstanding exceptions to the rule, admittedly. The difficulty in securing Empire goods has led one correspondent to assert that the meaning and object of the recent ignored by importers and dealers. Whatever the cause may be, it will scarcely be denied that foreign goods can be obtained without the least difficulty. This is the reward of service and judicious advertising. And it will only be by similar means that British products will be popularised.

All the blame in these matters cannot be laid at the doors of the retail businesses. In fact, a much greater share of it belongs to wholesale houses. There are firms in this Colony holding valuable British agencies who never think of advertising their products from one year's end to another. They are content to go on in the good old-fashioned ways of the past, forgetting that we live in times which call for other methods. In fairness to some others, however, it must be added that there has come to them in latter years a real appreciation of the value of publicity. One thing is certain—namely, that if Hongkong is to become a bigger market for Empire goods, some organised effort will have to be made, backed up by advertising giving actual prices, and by special shop window displays. The lead given by one of our oldest firms in this regard would, if generally followed, lead to beneficial results in the general interests of British trade.

Smashing the Dope Gangs.

"Drug traffickers are in for a most uncomfortable time," declared Russell Pasha, head of the Central Narcotics Intelligence Bureau, to the League of Nations Opium Committee earlier this year. And his words have been abundantly substantiated by the events of the past few weeks, which have brought disaster after disaster to illicit dope syndicates. In Egypt, the notorious Mohamed Mistapha Nafei, after snapping his fingers at law and order for thirty years, has been sentenced to a stiff term of imprisonment and a heavy fine. He was an enterprising gentleman who floated a shipping company to facilitate the smuggling of drugs. In Paris, a rich American, who was carrying $46,000 in notes when arrested, has been brought to book. This was the dramatic sequel to the discovery, about six months ago, of nearly a hundred-weight of morphine concealed on board the "Ile de France" at New York, in cases of children's toys. Three Englishmen fell into the net at Constantinople. Their speciality was a mail order business in heroin, an even more dangerous drug than morphine. They had many clients in Egypt. With them were associated the sister of one of the men, married to an Italian, and two Greeks. Much of the evidence against them was obtained by the Egyptian authorities, but the Turkish police acted with commendable speed. These outstanding cases well illustrate the difficulties of fighting the drug traffic and the absolute necessity of international co-operation. Scoundrels of all nationalities link themselves together; a Pole was arrested with the American. Their activities range over many countries and continents. The elaborate organisation and ingenious smuggling devices resorted to are amply repaid by the fabulous profits, often amounting to thousands per cent. Thanks to the excellent staff work of the League of Nations something like a common front is now being presented against the drug evil. The Constantinople arrests were made possible only by the fact that Turkey, although not then a member of the League, was persuaded to work with the League in this matter. The smashing of some of the leading gangs is most encouraging. Constant vigilance, nevertheless, is needed to prevent a recrudescence of large-scale traffic. Even in Great Britain, and certainly in other parts of the Empire, drug traffickers are still, at large.

EARNEST MEN CAN NEVER THINK IN VAIN THROUGH THEIR THOUGHTS MAY BE ERRORS.—Lytton.

Lane, Crawford's summer sale commences to-morrow.

The Ben Line s.s. Benalder, from Home via Straits, is due here on August 10th.

Connaught Road between Jackson Street and Wardley Street has been temporarily closed to traffic owing to a burst pipe under the road.

Owing to unforeseen circumstances the recital to be given by the Portuguese Amateurs at the Club de Recreio is postponed sine die.

Mr. W. C. Felshaw will speak on "Druidism" at the usual weekly public lecture of the Hongkong Lodge, the Theosophical Society, 17, Queen's Road Central, to-day at 6 p.m.

Mrs. P. N. Monteiro of 8 Hart Avenue was bitten by a dog yesterday afternoon as she was walking along the road. The animal is believed to belong to Mrs. Goings of 2 Hart Avenue.

Two lenses mounted on brass coils are reported by Staff Sergeant Dyer, R.A.O.C., to have been stolen from the front of the depot workshop where they had been left after being used in an experiment.

While being driven along Nathan Road last evening Mr. "Kid" Marriott's Austin Seven caught alight by the electric wire fusing. Fortunately the slight outbreak was soon extinguished without any damage being caused.

Sincere's sale is attracting crowds of bargain hunters, the ladies' day proving especially popular. From to-day to Saturday, special displays of goods suitable as presents to parents are on view, and young ladies are presenting customers with bunches of flowers as souvenirs.

The appointment has been announced by the Nanking Government of Mr. Yu Shun-wah, well known local racing owner and jockey, as the General Manager of the China Merchants Steamship Navigation Company, Hongkong branch. The appointment will take effect from August 1.

On turning into Nathan Road, from Saigon Road, Mr. E. S. Frank, of Luichikok Prison, who was driving motor cycle No. 175, lightly struck a man who ran across in front of the child carrying a baby. The child fell to the ground and received slight injuries to the back of his head and was treated by Dr. Asjoe, of Nathan Road.

According to a report made to the police by Mr. G. White, assistant manager of the Graeco-Egyptian Tobacco Store, a case of 'smokers' requisites which was consigned from Hamburg was found on arrival to contain nothing but foreign newspapers. The discovery was made when delivery was being taken from the Kowloon Godowns yesterday.

Charged with the theft of a gold watch valued at $85, Li Pan, a foki employed in a tea-shop in Shamshui, was sentenced to six weeks' hard labour before Mr. Fraser at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning. Sergeant Tuckett stated that defendant had only been employed in the shop for two days. Yesterday he was left in the shop with another foki, and when the master returned, he found a gold watch to be missing. Defendant was suspected and later investigations made by the police revealed that he had really stolen the watch.

STOCK EXCHANGE GAMBLING

WHERE PROFIT-MAKING IS MERELY A MYTH
By A STOCKBROKER.

"YOU can't make money in Throgmorton or Wall Street in the share market, unless you are working with a pool—or are on the inside, receiving your information from the operator. Then you will need hard cash to support your shares in case things go momentarily wrong."

Those were my parting words to three friends, each of whom three years ago could have written their cheques for over a quarter of a million pounds.

To-day, one of them is looking for a job; the other two are working for about five pounds a week and are glad to get it. Their beautiful homes, cars, yachts and everything they had acquired with their wealth have gone.

It is a huge mistake to imagine that by gambling or speculating in shares money can be made as a steady income. It has been made, but one must not overlook the fact that the large winnings made during the last Bull market were by people who did not know enough about share operations to fear the consequences of paying ridiculously high prices for them. For months rich and poor, to whom the game was a matter of luck, disregarded all the laws of economics and grew richer and richer on paper.

Bought in Ignorance.

If a friend told them to buy shares of the Hatty Group, they did because Mr. So-and-So made money out of them—there was no question asked as to what the shares were really worth, or to see a balance-sheet. To them it was the same as receiving a tip on a good horse—bound to win. There is only one known fact, that if you cannot see the top, you are bound to make money in a Bull market. What made them rich then was exactly what made them poor later; they did not know when to take profits because they did not know the top or when to cut losses because they were ignorant of the bottom.

It may be said that I am speaking only of the reckless speculator. I am not, as, when the boom came, the rich did not buy because they had been in possession of shares for years. They merely watched them go up, and as they had not bought for the rise, they felt they were not compelled to sell, in other words, they were just as guilty as the reckless speculator. At last, all their long held shares were going up. They should see no limit and why should they take profits when by waiting there was a chance to get more?

He who can see no top and no bottom is usually the one who loses all his money, just as my friend did.

Of the money made in the share market much has been made by lucky plunges, and the only ones who have really collected hard cash and have not merely seen paper profits are the ones who have had the money to form pools. It has not been a case of knowing top or bottom, but because they knew exactly how high the share was going and when to get out.

Made Seven Million.

In the recent Radio Corporation Pool Operations, the Pool

made over seven million pounds in three days, the others lost that amount and more. The Pool operators became rich on the public ignorance. During the rubber boom, one of the clerks employed in a City office reported late for duty. He was "ticked off" by his employer. The clerk calmly told him that he did not have to stand his abuse any longer as he had made ten thousand pounds in rubber.

This incident did not need any cleverness on the part of the clerk; he took a chance and knew enough to get out and take his profits. Dozens of true stories can be told of the cleverest market operators who made money for a time in shares, but in the end had to go back to their real business, deciding that it was best to leave the other fellow to make a fortune in Throgmorton Street.

I will give you two; one of a big business executive in London, the other of a professional market operator in Wall Street.

The big business man was the type of whom one reads in books. He started life by selling newspapers on the street corners, he found himself a job in an automobile factory, and by sheer hard work and grit he later became managing director of the factory. His firm made a lot of money selling motor cars. As he and his co-directors had not had much experience in the Stock market the shares of their company lagged and were selling on the exchange according to their true earning capacity, till one of the jobbers suggested forming a pool and putting the prices up so as to make the public eager to buy, which would send the price up still higher.

Would not Sell, and Lost.

In the course of events they became speculative motor favourites; everyone in the factory out of loyalty was carrying some on margin. When the shares were selling for over twenty times their value the managing director advised everybody to sell out and take their profits; he even went so far as to tell them that the factory could never earn enough dividends to return even five per cent. of the quoted price.

The staff did not think of the earnings, all they knew was that the shares were still going up.

Their eyes, instead of being on the company's balance-sheet, were on the tape, and that said, no top! The managing director sold out his holdings and took his profits in hard cash—a clever man. The rest waited just one day too long, and the shares tumbled down.

Having uninvested money is a great trial, and the managing director again thought of the company. He waited until he thought the shares had reached bottom, went into the market again, and bought himself one hundred thousand for a quick turn—he paid cash. But he could not see bottom, he kept buying until he found himself in a hole, and in order to save himself he had to put up the shares for which he had paid cash, as collateral. In 1931 the shares made record loss, and as he had no more cash or collateral to put up, he lost his millions. He is now back making motor cars. The only time he ever made money in shares was when he was part of the pool.

Willie Win's Wife.

The next is the one of the market operator—let us call him Willie Win. He was the prince of good fellows, and when Willie said "buy" there was nothing to it; everybody did and made money. He could switch investors from one stock to another, and could still keep making money for them. He was an acknowledged wonder. Willie started bulling an amusement stock; every day the ticker told its own tale; the price soared to sky high limits and became the sensation of the Bull market.

Early in 1929 he saw some of his associates whose judgment he valued reduce their holdings, and he did the same, becoming a multi-millionaire. Came the slump, and Willie's customers lost their shirts. When the crash was over some group started to try to make another Bull market. Now it was Willie's pet theory to start buying in such a market, and he did. Nobody in his group sold when there was a profit showing, with one exception. Willie Win had a private secretary—a remarkable and pretty girl; every time he bought she sold, and tucked herself away a cool million. Instead of the market remaining Bullish, Win saw it turn Bearish, and with it went all his millions to cover his losses.

He was one of the cleverest men Wall Street has ever known, but even he made up his mind that he knew nothing about the

UNITED STATES OF INDIADAVIDSON INQUIRY REPORT

FEDERAL PLAN

London, July 27.
With the issue to-night of the Report of the Indian States Inquiry Committee, the work of all three Committees appointed after the second session of the Round Table Conference has been completed.

The next important stage in the Indian situation will be the announcement, promised during the present summer, of the Government's decision on the communal question.

The States Inquiry Committee, over which Mr. J. C. Davidson presided, reached unanimous conclusions after a 10,000-mile tour among the Indian States, during which personal discussions were held with 88 Rulers or their Ministers, as well as with deputations representing whole classes of the smaller States.

IDEAL SYSTEM.

The purpose of the Committee was to explore specific financial problems of each state, bearing in mind the principle that the ideal system would be to arrive at an arrangement by which the Federal units would contribute on a uniform basis to Federal resources.

The work involved examination of the existing rights of each State under its particular treaty with the Crown, and examination in detail of the contributions which certain States make, and the value represented by the territories which some of the States have ceded to the Crown in return for guarantees of a military nature.

BALANCE SHEETS.

The Committee has prepared a balance sheet for each Indian State, debiting the amounts in respect of certain immunities enjoyed, and crediting it with its contribution to the Crown, which eventually passes into the revenues of the Government of India.

The object of the Committee has been to suggest terms which could be fairly reasonably accepted both by the States and British India as a basis of mutual and voluntary association. So far as the States are concerned, such association must be achieved with each individually, as only in a very general sense is it possible to speak of the common interest of the States, as contrasted with the interests of British India.

"GOLDEN SCALES."

The recommendations of the Committee are thus intended to provide material for a settlement with each State on its entry into the Federation on a basis of a balance sheet taking into account individual credits and debits.

The Committee, however, points out that by the very fact of their entry into the Federation, the States would be making a contribution "which is not to be weighed in golden scales."—British Wire-less.

HOUSEWIFE'S DELIGHT IN THE HOT SEASON

Among the latest articles of household comfort and necessity introduced in the Colony is a new model of the famous Electrolux refrigerator, placed on the local market by Messrs. Shevan Tomes and Co.

The necessity for some kind of refrigeration is demonstrated in every tropical and sub-tropical home and generally takes the form of ice-boxes which, however, seldom if ever rise to the standard of adequate protection against that pest, the cockroach, which makes its home in it and is very apt to contaminate food preserved therein. The ice-box has also the disadvantage of failing to give a regular refrigeration, the interior temperature being constantly varied by the mere opening of the box, so that a safe and uniform temperature becomes practically impossible.

A perfect larmer must be really cold all the time or food will decay. There are a number of refrigerators on the market which have very distinct advantages over the old method of preserving food, all of which have excellent points in their favour, but it is claimed for the Electrolux, and the claim was borne out by an ocular test, that it has certain advantages not to be found in any other apparatus. For instance it has a small amount of water takes the place of these. Moreover the running costs are low as the refrigerator is run by kerosene, gas or electricity, consuming from one-fifth to one-third of a gallon of kerosene, from two to three cubic feet of gas, or from 200 to 300 watts of electricity a day according to the size of the apparatus. It is called as a

OUR HARBOUR
FAIRWAYSARGUMENT IN THE APPEAL CASE

NAVAL OPINION

Interesting argument on fairways of Hongkong Harbour as they affected the Toyooka Maru and Kiangsu on the morning of their collision in March, 1931, was a feature of the Full Court Appeal by the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, continued this morning.

The parties are the China Navigation Company, owners of the Kiangsu, and the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, owners of the Toyooka Maru. The appeal was instituted with a view to quashing the judgment of Sir Joseph Kemp in favour of the China Navigation Company.

Sir Peter Grain, Sir Joseph Kemp, Mr. Justice Wood with Commander E. D. Brooke, R.N., and Lieut. Commander Ruydard Halpman (naval assessors) are hearing the case.

Mr. Eldon Potter K.C. and Mr. F. C. Jenkin are appearing for the China Navigation Company and Mr. H. G. Sheldon is representing the Nippon Yusen Kaisha.

FAIRWAY DEFINED.

When the Court resumed, Commander Brooke defined the southern limit of the fairway about which discussion has centred for two days.

"We consider that the southern limit would be bordered by the northern limit of the man-of-war anchorage," he said. "Turning further east, the southern limit would be bordered by the northern limit of the dangerous goods anchorage and still further east by the northern limit of the reclaimed ground."

Mr. Potter pointed out that Buoy A52 was a mooring buoy and was situated in the fairway. The position was that if a mooring buoy were in the fairway, vessels were entitled to anchor there.

"This point must be clear," he said. "If Buoy A52 is to be treated as being in the fairway, then any ship would be entitled to anchor south of A52. If she did so and rang her bell, she would be doing a perfectly proper thing."

Technical argument ensued on whether the fairway was a fairway within the meaning of The Bluebell or within the meaning of what Mr. Potter termed "Table M."

SURPRISE FOR SHIPPING.

Mr. Potter: If outward-bound ships, steering a course for Lyceum Pass, must keep right up to the man-of-war anchorage, right along the northern limit of the dangerous goods anchorage and thence as near as possible to the reclaimed, well, I think it will come somewhat as a surprise to captains of merchant ships.

Commander Brooke cleared the position by pointing out that the term "within the fairway" meant within the course usually taken by ships. He had merely defined the southern limits.

When Mr. Potter intimated that his next point would be that the Toyooka Maru should have ported her helm, Mr. Sheldon objected on the grounds that the Chief Justice found in favour of the Kiangsu on this point and if the judgment were to be disputed, notice of a cross appeal should have been given.

After argument, the Court decided that the phraseology of the judgment could not be interpreted as meaning that the point had been found in favour of the Kiangsu. No decision was given on this point at all.

Proceeding, Mr. Potter contended that by getting back into her own waters, the Toyooka Maru would have avoided a collision.

"A further point is that the Toyooka Maru should not have taken such a long time to appreciate the position of the Kiangsu from the sound of her whistles," said Mr. Potter.

SPEED OF KIANGSU.

Referring to the speed of the Kiangsu, Mr. Potter remarked that Mr. Sheldon, in his address, had suggested that when Captain Ritchie had said his speed was six knots, then six knots was his minimum speed.

He submitted it was really her maximum speed. The Kiangsu's speed through the water was four knots and she had a two knot current behind her, but that did not make her speed six knots. It was a matter for the assessors to decide.

Mr. Potter also argued that the Kiangsu would not be justified in stopping her engines and going ahead. Such action would tend to throw her right out of her course. The case is proceeding.

POLICE PETITION
SEQUELNEW DUTY HOURS
ISSUEDMEN STILL VERY DISSATISFIED

What is tantamount to a reply to the recent petition submitted to the Government by the Junior members of the Hongkong Police Force has now been received in the form of a revision of the hours of duty. These are contained in Orders issued by the Inspector General of Police to become effective on Monday next, August 1.

Dissatisfaction is evident among the men who will be affected by the changes, which are described as unfair and injurious to the health of the concerned.

The men directly concerned are those on street patrol. Previously they were required to patrol the streets for stretches of six hours a day, but recently orders were issued to the effect that the hours of duty would be increased to eight per day to be performed in stretches of four hours on and eight hours off.

It was against this arrangement that the petition was drawn up, the signatures requesting a reversion to the old times.

WORSE STILL.

There has now been a revision in the method by which the duties are to be performed and these are stated to amount not only to a denial of the request of the junior officers of the Force, but the imposition of even greater hardships.

It is pointed out, as an example, that for the first ten days of a month an officer is required to do his eight hours duty at a single stretch from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and, according to the strict reading of the Orders, no time is allowed for tiffin; while in another instance the eight hours are to be performed within a period of twelve hours, having a break of four hours in between.

According to some officers, the circumstances are even more aggravated when there is a change of shifts, in which case a man will do sixteen hours, punctuated with rests of four hours between every four hours' duty.

The Orders issued by the Inspector General of Police contain the tabulated times of duty and also orders in connexion with leave, etc.

CANTON WANTS
FUGITIVEFOR BANDITRY AND KIDNAPPING

Extradition proceedings in connexion with a requisition by the Canton authorities for the surrender of a fugitive, Chan Ping, who is wanted on charges of banditry and kidnapping in the Shun Tack District, Kwangtung, concluded before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court this morning.

In his opening, the Assistant Crown Solicitor, Mr. Whyte-Smith, stated that the victim, Chan Ping, was a farmer at Muk Sha village, in the Shun Tack district. He was evidently prosperous, for he still owned two farms in different districts.

On November 2, 1929, this farmer was in his house having his evening meal with four of his folk, when about ten men entered. They were armed with pistols and revolvers. The fugitive was alleged to be one of them.

CHAINED 40 DAYS.

The farmer and his folk were bound with ropes and the robbers proceeded to ransack the house. They stole over $100 in money and also jewellery and clothing to the value of $500. They then led off the farmer and kept him in a cage in a boat on the Sin Kau River, Pun U district. There he was kept chained for forty days, during which time the bandits claimed $15,000 ransom.

It was the case for the Crown that the fugitive was the man who wrote that letter.

Ultimately the farmer's father, who is now dead, agreed to pay $3,600 and this money was taken by one of the folk who had been in the house when the robbers arrived. He paid the money over to the fugitive and brought back the farmer, who settled down to work on the farm again and heard no more of the bandits until this year.

RECENT ARREST.

The same folk who had paid over the money later heard that the fugitive was in Hongkong. He came to Hongkong and on May 7 last saw him in Canton Road. The fugitive was arrested on May 11 on a Detention Warrant.

Later, an application for extradition was made by Mr. Lam Wan-yai, Chairman of the Provincial

Game and Lose

New York, July 27.
Thanks to some brilliant work by Cleveland Indians, Rube Walberg and their heavy hitters, Philadelphia Athletics gained two full games on the New York Yankees to-day, with the Indians equally successful.

Morgan's home run settled the issue in the second game of Cleveland's double header with the Yankees. The Indians registered twelve runs from 9 hits.

Fox, Simmons, McNair and Miller hit for the circuit to enable the Athletics to beat Detroit 13-8 in their first game. In the second, Walberg pitched wonderfully, allowing seven scattered hits, blanking the Tigers completely.

Pittsburgh Pirates in the National won both games of a double header and are gradually drawing clear of their rivals.

Home runs, beyond those already mentioned, were hit by Terry, Lindstrom, and Moore (Giants), Vaughan and Piet (Pittsburgh), Herman and Durocher (Cincinnati), Jolley (Boston Red Sox), Vosmik (Cleveland) Wyatt (Detroit), Kahel (Washington.)

Following a quarrel with a woman relative, Cheong Sam-ho, aged 39, a married woman of 68, Third Street, is stated to have committed suicide yesterday by taking what appeared to be opium poisoning. She was removed to the Government Civil Hospital, where she died early this morning.

Government of Kwangtung, and on June 15, H.E. the Governor made an order that this requisition had been made.

In a statement made at the conclusion of the Court proceedings this morning, the fugitive declared that he had been wrongly identified.

His Worship was satisfied that there had been proper identification, and made an order committing the fugitive to gaol pending his surrender to the Canton authorities.

WHEELERS RACE SETS RECORD FOR DISTANCE

Every year the speeds achieved in the Manchester Wheelers' open "50" become faster, and the results of the latest race set up a new record for the course, states the Sporting Chronicle of June 27.

There was an entry comprising all the leading half-century specialists of the North and Midlands, and no fewer than three of them—Gilbert and Ross, of the East Liverpool Wheelers, and J. W. Brooke of Gomersal—were on scratch.

As might have been expected, however, Charles Holland, the Midlander, beat the lot, and his one-minute start was sufficient to give him second handicap prize.

The winning time was 2 hr. 12 min. 31 sec., a fine performance for the undulating Shropshire course.

TEAMS COMPARED.

The selections for the English Olympic pursuit team have been criticized and also praised. There are always widely divergent opinions when selections are based on private data.

One fact, however, is beyond dispute, and that is that on the strict book of figures the team do not, at the moment, stand a ghost of a chance against the French team.

INDIAN GOLFER WINS TWO TITLES

The Indian has proved his supremacy in the white man's game of golf.

E. J. Rogers of Oklahoma City, winner of the state amateur golf title, is a 16th blood Osage. Early Berryhill of Sapulpa, who went to the finals in the tournament, is a 16th Creek and a 16th Cherokee, but is registered as a member of the Creek tribe.

Rogers is 29 years old, Berryhill 28.

Rogers is the first man in the history of Oklahoma to hold both the open and amateur titles the same year.

The best time ridden by any combination of Englishmen for the 4,000 metres this season is 5 min. 8 2/5 sec. In Paris, recently, the team of the Velo Club de Levallois, including three of the four Olympic selections, won a distinct championship in 4 min. 59 2/5 sec., with their nearest runners-up three seconds slower.

HIGGINS UNLUCKY.

Bad luck pursued E. W. Higgins, the Manchester Wheelers' sprinter, in his trip to Copenhagen for the Amateur Grand Prix of that city recently.

After beating no less a person than Willy Gerwin, runner-up in the world's championship last year in his heat, the Englishman fell on the banking and was badly bruised in the arm and leg.

In the semi-final he was matched against the world's champion, Harder, but it was not surprising that under the handicap of his injuries he was beaten.

Despite this, and whatever may have happened in the English championship, there is no doubt that Higgins represents real sprinting class.

SOUTH CHINA MADE TO PAY FULL PENALTY

LEGITIMATE CLAIM TO LEAGUE POINTS REFLECTS AN UNSPORTING ACTION

REVISION OF RULES IMPERATIVE

REFUSING to agree to a postponement of their match with the South China in the "B" Division of the Tennis League, when the latter declared their inability to raise a team, the Chinese Recreation Club took the case to the Executive Committee of the L.T.A., and under Rules 6 and 8 of the Tennis League, claimed the match points in default.

Despite the fact that they are perfectly entitled to the points awarded them under the rules, it is generally felt that the C.R.C. adopted an unnecessarily harsh attitude to the whole incident, their action reflecting a spirit quite contrary to that associated with league tennis.

By "VERITAS."

Although the decision of the Executive Committee of the L.T.A., in regard to the scratched match between the "B" Division teams of the Chinese Recreation Club and the South China Athletic Association, in which the C.R.C. claimed and received points in default, will come as no surprise, and was under the strict interpretation of the rules, the only course the committee could adopt, the sympathies of those interested in the tennis league and the healthy sporting competition which it endeavours to promote, will be with South China.

AN UNEVIABLE TASK.

The "sentence" of the Executive Committee cannot either be reasonably questioned or disagreed with. The committee was confronted with the unenviable task of judging a case purely upon the interpretation of the rules governing its circumstances. Extenuating facts and precedents could not be taken into consideration. Decision had to be based on the fact that the South China scratched a match without the sanction of the committee as demanded by Rule 6.

Nevertheless, the claim forward by the C.R.C. came as a distinct surprise. It is not the first time a club has found itself unable to raise a team and has, with the sanction of its opponents, and without recourse to any rules, scratched the match until a later date mutually agreed upon by the clubs concerned. So established, in fact, has become this precedent, that it was amazing to find a club such as the C.R.C. putting forward their appeal.

THE AIM OF THE LEAGUE.

It was a perfectly legitimate claim, but it is fortunate for the Lawn Tennis Association that every club does not take advantage of the rules in order to secure points. Enquiry would probably reveal the fact that at least a dozen clubs have a perfectly fair claim to points by default under the same ruling as that applied to the incident under discussion.

A tennis league such as that which exists in Hongkong, despite its influence towards strenuous competition, is not intended to offer opportunities alone for clubs to exercise and indicate their superiority over their rivals, and cups, shields, points, victories, and defeats should all be secondary in the minds of the competitors. The league should be (and fortunately has been by the majority of clubs) regarded as an excellent medium for improving one's tennis, of inculcating the team spirit and of pleasant intercourse between the clubs.

AMBIGUOUS RULES.

Leaving alone the more ethical side of the question, an incident such as has just arisen, reveals the immediate need of a revision and reconstruction of the league rules. At present they are either far too elastic or, when strictly interpreted, leave one without the slightest opportunity of including extenuating circumstances in one's consideration of a case.

Rule 6 for instance, under which the C.R.C. v. S.C.A.A. disagreement was adjudicated, states that a match can only be postponed either through wet weather which prevents play, or by sanction of the Executive Committee. This means that a team, finding itself incomplete through illness or any other legitimate reason only a few hours before the match is due to be played, has to get the sanction of the Executive Committee or pay the penalty. The very impossibility of securing the sanction of the committee within a few hours shows the impracticability of the ruling.

Heretofore the clubs have recognized this, and in all cases have come to a mutual arrangement over the whole thing. South China themselves have suffered in this respect this summer, but rather than take advantage of the rules, agreed to a rearrangement.

GENEROUS ATTITUDE NEEDED.

One would have liked to have seen such a lead given by one of the leading clubs in the Colony in this direction. It would show, at least, a willingness to give and take, which is an essential factor in a league of the proportion and importance of the Hongkong Lawn Tennis League.

It is difficult to imagine that the principle in such a case as this outweighs in importance the more generous attitude of mutual consideration. Though the inconvenience of last-minute postponements cannot be denied (to which nearly every club in the league could testify) experience in the past has shown that much better results are obtained from a generous attitude and an endeavor to conciliate.

Rules should be regarded more as guides rather than correctives and should be used as such. Constant appealing to laws to settle slight differences which could receive more satisfactory attention from mutual consideration, does more harm than good to any sport.

It is to be hoped that this attitude of mutual assistance will be adopted by all clubs competing in the tennis league in the future.

ANGLO-AMERICAN YACHTING

Britain Well Beaten at Ryde

Ryde, July 21.
The contest between British and American six-metres for the British-America cup continued today off Ryde when the American team piled up another big advantage in points, establishing a lead which Britain cannot now overtake.

To-day the American team of four boats came in ahead of the British boats, they being in the following order: Nancy, Bobkat, Lucie and Jill.

A feature of the races has been the consistent performance of Bobkat, which has come in second in all three races while the other three American boats have now won a race apiece.

The score to-day was 26 1/2 points for America and 9 for Britain. For the three races the points now are: American 75 points, Britain 33.

SOUND CONSERVATIVE JUDGMENT

Like a fortress, the China Realty Company has stood through the years, a source of power in times of progress, a refuge in times of adversity.

The history of this company has been a continuous record of steady successes, the inevitable result of sound conservative judgment. The officers of this company in whom the responsibility of judging mortgageable values has been vested, are men with a keen knowledge of Shanghai real estate values, and so sound and accurate have their forecasts and valuations been, that during the past 20 years, a sum greater than one hundred million taels has been invested in first class mortgages, without one cent of loss in principal or interest.

Whatever adverse conditions have affected Shanghai, the China Realty Company has remained firm, its investments and assets at all times in an unassailable position.

It is with this company that you are invited to invest your funds—to give them an earning power one-third greater than is usual, and yet protected with a margin of safety that has become a recognized factor in the business and finance worlds of Shanghai to-day.

Banking authorities, finance writers and business men, all are shareholders in the China Realty Company. These men have studied the facts—they know that the China Realty Company 8% debenture issue, guaranteed by the entire assets of this soundly established prosperous company offers one of the finest investment opportunities available to-day.

$100 or more, can secure for you a China Realty Company 8% interest bearing investment—we welcome the opportunity to give you further information.

This is No. 30 of a series of advertisements issued to interest Hongkong investors in the liberal investment opportunities offered by the China Realty Company, Shanghai.

Cadet Officer who is a Chinese scholar.

There should be attached to the Sanitary Department one or more Health Officers seconded from the Medical and Sanitary Department, one of whom should represent the Director of Medical Health Services on the Sanitary Board.

Annual Reports.

The Director of Medical and Sanitary Services as the officer responsible to Government for the health of the Colony, should as a statutory duty once a year, and as often as he may deem it necessary, make a tour of inspection and enquire into the workings of the Sanitary Department submitting his reports to Government direct. The D.M.S.S. should be at liberty to communicate direct with the Medical Officer of Health on matters of Public Health Interest. The D.M.S.S. should not give direct instructions to any member of the staff of the Sanitary Department.

An Advisory Board.

There should be established a Public Health Advisory Board consisting of Heads of Departments and prominent non-officials whose duties would be to consider all matters of public health importance, and to advise Government on matters of policy. The Chairman should be the Hon. Colonial Secretary and the Vice-Chairman the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services.

In the Federated Malay States such Boards have proved their worth over and over again, in evaluating schemes, in promoting harmonious co-operation between departments and in stimulating energy.

Medical and Health Department.

In order to avoid confusion in the future, the title of Director of Medical and Sanitary Services should be changed to that of Director of Medical and Health Services.

The Medical and Health Department should have at its head the Director of Medical and Health Services so that the activities of the Department—investigative, preventive, and curative—shall be under one administrative head, as is the case in all modern health organisations. With one professional head there is:

(a) Simplicity of control and assurance of proper co-ordination and co-operation between the branches concerned.

(b) Simplicity of correspondence with consequent clarity and despatch.

(c) Promptness of action especially in emergency.

(d) Economy in that there is no duplication of personnel, machinery or equipment.

The Medical Department should consist of:

- The Headquarters Staff.
- The Medical Branch.
- The Investigation and Research Branch.
- The Health Branch.
- The Veterinary Branch.

The Headquarters Staff should include:

The Director of Medical and Health Services.
The Deputy Director of Medical and Health Services.
A Secretary to the Medical and Health Department.

Investigation and Research.

The Investigative and Research Branch should include:

- The Government Bacteriologist.
- The Asst. Bacteriologist who should be called Pathologist.
- The Malarologist who should be also Medical Entomologist.
- The Government Analyst.
- The Asst. Government Analyst.

The Medical or Curative Branch should include:

- A Chief Medical Officer.
- A Senior Surgeon.
- A Senior Physician.
- A Senior Obstetric Officer.
- A Radiologist.
- An Ophthalmologist.
- An Anaesthetist.
- A Dental Surgeon.
- Seven Medical Officers.

The Health or Preventive Branch should include:

- A Chief Health Officer.
- Two Port Health Officers.
- Ten District Health Officers.
- Three Lady Medical Officers.
- A Health Officer for Social Hygiene.
- A Propaganda Officer.

The Veterinary Branch should include:

- The Government Veterinary Surgeon.
- The Assistant Government Veterinary Surgeon.

MEN LIKE THESE

"MEN LIKE THESE" may or may not be classed as entertainment, but as an epic of the superb courage and exemplary conduct displayed in the face of disaster by those men who serve under the sea, it is an achievement of which to be proud. There are no false heroics in this. You will not view these men as actors playing a part... Its realism, especially the drama on the floor of the ocean when the men are trapped in a living tomb, is stunning.

expressionless as he hung up the receiver, but the message must have been a pleasant one because after a minute or two he began whistling.

His task finished, he called the office of the club and asked the porter to come up for his bags. Bob rummaged in his pocket for some silver and gave a last fleeting look about the room as though to be certain he had forgotten nothing. Then he followed the man to the elevator.

When dinner was over Denise wandered from window to window, restless as a jaguar. She was not unlike a slim, padding animal herself in her slinky frock of buttercup yellow satin. It caught the light and its fluid movement followed the slouch of her lovely body.

She lit one cigarette after another only to crush them out again. Now and then she would lift the heavy curtains to peer out into the night.

It was raining steadily in an unrelenting spring downpour. The silence, unbroken save for the snap of the burning logs on the hearth and the beating of raindrops against the window panes, appeared to increase her nervousness. At last she flung herself into a low chair by the side of the desk and picked up the telephone.

The voice of Bob Dunbar's father presently came crackling over the wire.

"You talked to him, then?" Denise purred. "I don't know why but I've been a little nervous. I began to think he might leave the club before we reached him. That's fine!" When she put down the instrument she wore a look of feline satisfaction.

Denise arose and turned on a radio, cunningly secreted in an eighteenth century cabinet in one corner. To the barbaric strain of jazz music she executed a few dancing steps. Then she switched the dial until the music sounded in a lower key and returned to the telephone. She called a city number and sat drumming lightly on the table as she waited.

"I want to speak to Mr. Robert Dunbar," she said. There was a brief pause while the speaker at the other end consulted someone. "He's registered there," cried Denise impatiently. "His father only just spoke to him." A male voice came back regretfully.

"Sorry, madam, but he's checked out. He said," and here there was another brief wait as though the speaker were referring to some memorandum before him, "he said to tell anyone who called he was leaving to be married."

Denise tore her chiffon handkerchief into strips, her eyes blazing. "His father's an old fool!" she muttered. "He's got away from us!" (To Be Continued).

LAWN BOWLS.

POLICE TROUNCED IN SPEY ROYAL CUP MATCH

Never during the whole match did the Police R.C. show any dangerous form in their tie with the Kowloon Bowling Green in the Spey Royal Cup Competition on the Kowloon C.C. green yesterday, when the custodians of the law were trounced 30 shots to 11.

On the first head the Police opened with a single but did not score again until the 13th head, by which time their opponents had gradually increased their lead, by singles on many occasions but by a sufficient margin to give them an overwhelming advantage.

During the later stages of the game each rink scored a five, the biggest accounts of the day.

The Police were represented by E. G. Post, J. C. West, W. E. Hollands and W. Mair (skip) and the Kowloon Bowling Green-rink was composed of R. S. Nichol, W. S. Drake, R. Hall and A. M. Holland.

Championship Match.

P. T. Farrell played C. J. Taachi on the Kowloon C.C. green in the Open Championship and won a scrappy game 21 shots to 10. The winner will now meet R. S. Nichol.

Teams for Saturday.

The following will represent the Taihook R. C. in their matches on Saturday:

1st Team v. Kowloon Dock R. C. (Home):—J. B. Chapman, J. Sloan, W. Wetherspoon, D. Munro (skip); A. Stalker, J. Polson, J. Russell, J. Chalmers (skip); G. McLeod, D. B. Bone, W. Weir, J. Watson (skip).

ANZAC SUPPER DANCE

PENINSULA HOTEL FUNCTION

A get-together supper-dance, inaugurated by the members of the Anzac Corps of the Hongkong Volunteer Force, will be held at the Peninsula Hotel to-morrow night.

Over 120 residents have signified their intention of being present at the function, the primary object of which is to bring together the Australian and New Zealand residents in the Colony.

Dancing, the music for which will be rendered by the Peninsula Dance Band, will be interspersed with several musical items, and the entire programme will be relayed by ZBW.

Tickets, which cost $5 each, may be obtained from any member of the Anzac Corps, or from Mr. C. de Saille Robertson, of the Hongkong Brewery. All Australian and New Zealand residents, of Hongkong, and their friends, are cordially invited to attend the function, which promises to be even more successful than the last
Anzac dinner, held on April 25.

LABOUR GAINS SEAT

TAKES WEDNESBURY FROM CONSERVATIVES

London, July 27.
Labour gained a seat in the by-election for the Wednesbury constituency of the House of Commons to-day, scoring a signal victory as the last election resulted in a majority of 4,158 for the Conservative candidate.

The election resulted:
Mr. Bantfield (Labour) 21,977
Mr. Davis (Conservative) 18,198

Majority for Labour 3,779
The by-election was caused by the succession to the peerage of Viscount Ednam on the death of his father, the Earl of Dudley.—
Reuter.

The body of an unknown Chinese, clothed in a black ragged jacket and a black wrap, was found on Channel Rocks, in Kowloon Bay yesterday.
The body had obviously been there for some considerable time.

OF B.M.A.

VERY INTERESTING PROGRAMME

LONDON GATHERING

London, July 27.

Over two thousand doctors, including many from overseas, have assembled in London for the centenary celebrations of the British Medical Association.

Papers totalling over a million words are being read and discussed in the twenty-four sections, presided over by specialists in each section. As a check on the clo-quence of the speakers, the old prerogative of limiting speeches to ten minutes is being employed.

The programme is of exceptional interest both to laymen and members of the medical profession.

MENACE OF QUACKERY.

The whole question of unqualified manipulative surgeons will be raised in a discussion on
"The Menace of Quackery in Physical Medicine," which will be opened by Dr. C. B. Heald, an expert on injuries from sport.

Sharp differences of opinion are expected in a discussion on the basis of inoculation, which will be led by Sir Almroth Wright, a world authority on the subject. The bacteriological section will also deal with the case of milk-borne infections, a subject which is well to the fore at the moment, since the accepted methods of estimating the number of bacteria in milk have recently been shown to be wholly unreliable.

Professor J. C. G. Ledingham, the leading authority on virus diseases, will go straight to the core of an important problem when he speaks on "Tissue Changes in Virus Diseases."

FORENSIC MEDICINE.
The section of Forensic Medicine will hear papers from such well-known experts as Sir Bernard Spilsbury and Professor Sydney
Smith, of Edinburgh. Dr. Godfrey
Carter will discuss freak suicides, and Dr. C. Killick Millard, Medical Officer of Health for Leicester, will broach a favourite subject in
"The Medico-Legal Aspects of Voluntary Euthanasia."

Finally, doctors will be given an opportunity to express their views

POSTAL BOYCOTT

AGAINST COMMUNIST DISTRICTS

Shanghai, July 28.

It is learned from Nanking that the Ministry of Communications has decided to cut off all areas in China under the control of either bandits or communists from the rest of the country, at least as far as postal facilities are concerned.

In future, a boycott, similar to that against Manchukuo, will be conducted against all Communist and bandit districts.—Reuter.

BRAZILIAN AIR
PIONEER

BRITISH COUNCIL'S SYMPATHY

London, July 27.

The British Air Council have sent through the British Air Attache in South America, who is now in Rio de Janeiro, a message of condolence on the death of M.
Santos Dumont, to the Brazilian Government and the family of the distinguished Brazilian air pioneer.—British Wireless.
